

Annette Waterstradt

My name is Annette Waterstradt, and I am 56 years old.

I come from Denmark, and work as a librarian at a public library situated in the suburb of Copenhagen.

For several years I have been interested in how children and young adults use the libraries, and lately I have focused upon newcomers. The project I will be talking about “Forever Young” is one of many projects.

Besides I generally work with innovation. Lately I have been dealing with how to design the interior of the libraries to make them attractive to the public.
