Formerly the Round Table on User Education, the Information Literacy Section works to foster international cooperation among all types of libraries in the development of educational programs to support information literacy. The Section focuses on all aspects of information literacy, including the development of user education programs, collaboration among educators, pedagogy and educational theory, the use of computers, networked resources, and media in teaching and learning, support for distance education, and the training of librarians in information literacy

Section Projects

What Do We Do?

The Information Literacy Section

- Promotes the development of standards and best practices for information literacy and user education.
- Publishes and disseminates information about research and trends in the theory and practice of education for information literacy.
- Sponsors workshops and other professional development programs relating to information literacy and user education.
- Fosters international communication about information literacy.
- Advocates for the inclusion of user education in the curricula of programs to educate library professionals.
- Serves in an advisory role to IFLA on policy matters relating to information literacy.
- Participates in outreach to other communities concerned with lifelong learning.
