

26 August 2010

Dear Information Coordinators and Web-editors,

Very glad to have met so many of you in Gothenburg! Getting back to one of the topics raised in our meetings....

We are happy to offer each Section, Core Activity, and SIG full-fledged blogging capabilities using WordPress software. IFLA blogs will utilize WordPress in its 'multi-site' version, meaning that we can create an indefinite number of separate blogs—each with an indefinite number of authors/editors.

Several are already up and running. Have a look:

<http://blogs.ifla.org/>

To get a blog started for your Section, there are a few things we first need to know:

1. Blog name (should be short, i.e. Public Libraries Blog, IFLA PAC Blog, IFLA Cataloguing Blog, etc.)
2. Blog description (should also be short, i.e. one line. See descriptions created for the current blogs)
3. Blog administrator name and email address (The administrator will register ALL users, maintain the blog, be responsible for its order, etc.)

So, if your Section would like a blog, please send a request and the above information to webmaster@ifla.org and we'll get you started!

If your Section already has a blog—either on IFLA.org or from another server—we can help merge/import old content to a new blog. Please contact webmaster@ifla.org for more information.

IFLA Web team