Dear Friends and Colleagues

Thank you for your cards and messages. It’s been good to hear from you. I’m sorry that I’m not able to respond to each of them individually. Instead I offer the following update on my professional activities, which accompanies the eighth instalment of my annual Christmas/New Year ABC. For background and earlier issues, see: http://peterlor.com/2012/12/27/peter-lors-library-abc/.

Last year I gave up my art lessons and pulled out of our church choir so as to concentrate on my book. This year I’ve made progress, but, as some of the chapters have been undergoing cell division, it has been growing in the middle rather than at the end. I’m still a long way from completing it, and it’s become a bit of an embarrassment. I’ve had to occupy me during the year, but I’ve tried to restrict myself to papers and other tasks that bear some relationship to my book. In the Fall I again taught my online class in international and comparative librarianship in the School of Information Studies (SOIS) at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. (For more information on the course click here.) I again taught a half module, also dealing with international librarianship, in the Carnegie-funded MIT (Master of Information Technology) course at the University of Pretoria. I have been honoured with a two-year appointment as a Research Fellow in the Graduate School of Library and Information Science at the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign, and had the pleasure of presenting an on-line to a lively group of students in Professor Terry Weech’s course in international librarianship. It is a privilege to be able to do all this from our home in Sedgefield.

Some completed tasks have given rise to follow-up work. I’m co-editing a Library trends issue (due in 2016) on the theme ‘Libraries in the political process: benefits and risks of political visibility’, which arises from the 2014 open session of IFLA’s Section of Library Theory and Research, and I’m contributing an article to it. Together with an energetic group of colleagues in the Department of Library and Information Science at the University of the Western Cape, I co-organized a Satellite Conference which took place in Cape Town immediately before the August 2015 IFLA Congress, on “Digital Preservation as a Site of Contestation: National Heritage, Memory, Politics and Power — Beyond Technology and Management”. For a brief report and some photos, see Kim Bak er’s blog. Currently I’m co-editing a special issue of Innovation, also due in 2016, arising from this event. At the IFLA Congress itself I presented a paper in the joint session of the Africa Section and the Special Interest Group on Library History, entitled “Who was to blame? The genealogy of the ‘Anglo-African national library service model’”, a topic I explored in Chapter 10 of the book. I adapted my public lecture given at the IFLA/UNESCO Africa Week event last year as an article, “Understanding innovation and policy transfer: implications for libraries and information services in Africa” which was published recently in the Library trends theme issue “Library and information services in Africa in the Twenty-first century”, volume 64(1), edited by Ellen Tise. My interest in this also arose from work on my book.

For the first time in many years, I had an article published in Afrikaans, in the Tydskrif vir geesteswetenskappe. This was on “Libraries and peace: a critical reflection on the role of libraries in promoting peace”, co-authored with Hannes Britz. I contributed a short chapter on “Librarians for peace” to the Festschrift for Professor Seth Manaka, a long-term mentor and friend. I am continuing to reflect on libraries and peace, a reflection which arose from my work on Chapter 1 of the book. This caused me to look more closely at the intersection of internationalism, peace movements, and international librarianship. I am scheduled to deliver a public lecture on this topic in Florence in March 2016.

I travelled to Yaoundé in Cameroon at the beginning of this month to present a paper entitled “Libraries in Sub-Saharan Africa: colonial origins and development trajectories” at an interdisciplinary workshop held in the framework of an International Library Congress on “Formation, recherche, appui au développement : les sciences et métiers de l’information documentaire face au défi de l’émergence de l’Afrique”. This was a far too brief visit to a beautiful and interesting country. Sad to say, what I saw of library development there was disheartening, a reflection perhaps of the continuing retard (backwardness) of library development in Francophone Africa. It reflects the situation in France, at least as far as public libraries are concerned, that was so ably analysed by Anne-Marie Bertrand, in her book, Bibliothèque publique et public library: essai de généalogie comparée – one of the best studies in international comparative librarianship in recent years.

The IFLA World Library and Information Congress in Cape Town in August was a highlight of the year. It was good to catch up with many colleagues, although, as usual, some were seen only at a distance or going in the opposite direction on the escalator, and good intentions notwithstanding, were not seen again. After the Congress, Monika and I were joined by two IFLA colleagues on a birding tour in the Western half of South Africa. Visiting five of our lesser known national parks, we recorded many endemics and the visitors went home with lots of “fillers”. As for us personally, I’m happy to report that Monika and I and our immediate family are all well. We have lots to do and are in no danger of being bored. In fact, we seem to be busier than ever. But we enjoy our lovely Garden Route environment and still sometimes have to pinch ourselves to ensure that we are not dreaming.

I’ve missed the Christmas deadline again. But since in the Christian Church the time of Christmas traditionally lasts twelve days, I nevertheless wish all my Christian friends a blessed Christmas. And to all who receive this letter, our warm greetings and good wishes for health, prosperity and, above all, peace, in 2016.

V is for Van Wyksdorp, a small rural village in the scenic Little Karoo, South Africa. During the ostrich feather boom in the early 20th century it was an important local centre, but the boom ended, the railway passed it by, and it declined. Now quaint and tranquil, it has around 500 inhabitants, many of them elderly and/or dependent on social grants. The public library is run by the Kananal and Local Municipality and is affiliated to the provincial library service of the Western Cape Province. The library is housed in the Community Centre, formerly a school hostel. The Centre is operated by an NGO, Comunity Projects; which operates a range of job creation and community

W is for Worcester, pronounced “Wooster” after its counterpart in England. With a population of around 100,000, it is the hub of the Breed River region. The public library is run by the Breede River Local Municipality and is affiliated to the library service of the Western Cape Province of South Africa. The current building was opened in 1988 and was at that time designed for 30,000 books, 1,500 A/V media, 4 staff members, and seating for 135. The librarian told me that it is now much too small and needs to be extended, but I thought that it remains attractive and retains a vibrant ambience. There were a lot of users about, which is great. The circulation desk is perhaps not its most attractive space, but I decided that this year I would provide pictures of the desks of all three of the libraries, so that you

X is for Xanten, a small city (c. 21,000 inhabitants) in Nordrhein-Westfalen, Germany. Xanten has a long history going back to Roman times. Normally I use only photographs taken by myself, but in August I realized that the letter X would be a problem. My colleague Barbara Schleihagen of the Deutscher Bibliotheksverband (German library federation) kindly referred me to the City Librarian of Xanten, Frau Anita Rosenberg, who created a new dilemma for me by sending a batch of such beautiful photographs of her public library that it was difficult to choose one. Here is the circulation desk to compare with the other two. But since there were so many other photographs of her library’s modern, attractive spaces, I decided to post an extra set of photos of all three here.

The Hard working Volunteers

1. INTRODUCTION
The Africa Section held a successful satellite meeting at the University of South Africa (UNISA) Parow Campus. The Section held very well attended Standing Committee Meetings on Sunday 16th 2015, chaired by the outgoing Chair, Dr Victoria Okojie and the 19th of August 2015, chaired by the new Chair, Dr. Rosemary Shafack. On the 18th August 2015, the Section held its first ever Africa Caucus Meeting which was chaired by the Division V Chair, Dr Victoria Okojie. Between one hundred and one hundred and fifty participants attended and came from all over the Continent, with some from the Diaspora. Development partners as well as stakeholders in the LIS sector in Africa turned up. Several other Interest Groups such as ATINA with links to Africa Section, also held meetings during the Cape Town IFLA Congress.

2. SATELLITE MEETING REPORT
The Chair welcomed all who had sacrificed to attend the satellite conference. She extended special welcome to the keynote speaker, Dr. Buhle Mbambo-Thata who despite her charged schedule accepted to do the key note for this meeting. She equally thanked the paper presenters for their sacrifices. She looked forward to fruitful discussions on issues from all ramifications on the African continent relating to the development agenda (The UN SDGs 2030).

2.1 KEYNOTE ADDRESS
The Key Note address by Dr. Buhle Mbambo-Thata on the Theme: The Post 2015 Development Agenda: An Overview and Implications for the LIS Sector set the tone for the two day meeting. She focused on MDGs and SDGs which are built on the United Nations (UN) declaration for Human Rights. She zeroed in on African Libraries and MDGs, IFLA Pre-conference of 2007 by the African Section, Africa Section series of training workshops for all regions in Africa and the outcomes as seen in the Health information corners, Youth information services, Small business information and the Evaluation of Impact. Her presentation discussed SDGs 1-17 and highlighted what opportunities were available such as linking with AU Agenda 2063, IAP, national government agendas, role of associations, library education and how as librarians we could initiate action and advocate for access to information.

2.2 SATELLITE MEETING - PRESENTATIONS
- Irene Onyancha of the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa presented on challenges of achieving the Post 2015 SDGs in Africa. In her paper titled, ‘Challenges of Achieving the Post – 2015 SDGs in African Societies’, she focused on the following issues: IFLA’s message to the United Nations member states, role of libraries in the development agenda and the Lyon Declaration. She analyzed the benefits of access to information and also looked at the challenges such as the right of access to information, developing access to information legislation, supporting open information environments, access to ICT infrastructure and Public libraries as the information service providers. In conclusion, she emphasized the need for public enlightenment and awareness, sensitization and training of public institutions and officials, records keeping and information management, funding, ICT skills as a way of reducing challenges.
• Dr. Fadehan of the University of Lagos, Nigeria
She presented a paper on, “Academic Women’s Perception of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) Achievement and the Role of Librarians in Africa: The Case of Cosmopolitan Lagos, Nigeria.” The outline of the paper cut across objectives, research questions, hypothesis, methodology, data analysis, summary findings, way forward and a conclusion. Her presentation focused on the relevance of libraries to the success and survival of every area of human endeavour. The Library has been proved by her study as a veritable tool and the most venerable institution of all ages, promoting human and societal development. This was a success story of women’s involvement in the actualization of the MDGs using the library mechanism.

• UNISA Mobile Library
Delegates at the Satellite Meeting were given the rare opportunity to tour the famous UNISA Mobile Library that caters for their distant learners in the Western Cape.

• Webinar on Navigating the United Nations Library Research Tools and Resources: Exploring the use of web 2.0 Technologies to enhance information access: Dag Hammaskjold Library in New York, USA.
One of the highlights of the Satellite meeting was the webinar on the above. This was scheduled as one of the satellite sessions and it proved to be an exciting experience with a lot to learn.

2. AFRICA CAUCUS MEETING REPORT
The Africa Caucus Meeting was held for the first time on Tuesday 18th August 2015. It was chaired by Victoria Okojie. In her opening remarks, she welcomed all who were present to the first Africa Caucus and promised that this would be a regular meeting in future.

She introduced Africa Section members and thanked outgoing members for their service to the Section. She also introduced the two members on the Governing Board, Ellen Namhila, Namibia and Victoria Okojie, Nigeria –who was also the Head of Division V. The Chair encouraged more Africa members to join other Sections and emphasized the need to represent Africa well whenever they were elected to any committees. African Library and Information Associations (AfLIA) was introduced to the gathering and the Executive Director- Dr Helena Asamoah- Hassan was given an opportunity to brief the meeting. In her address, she highlighted the importance of AfLIA to the African continent. She invited all to participate in this continental Association. She gave a brief outline of the structure of AfLIA and announced the Members that were elected at the Accra Meeting to head the five sections – Academic and Research Section, Public Libraries, National Libraries, Library Associations and Library Schools and Institutions. The Chair then continued with the meeting issues and highlighted the importance of identifying and understanding partners working on the continent of Africa and what they were doing. She indicated that Africa Caucus would like to identify and work with these development partners with the hope of providing guidance.

6. SECTION MEETINGS REPORT (SCI & SCII)
6.1 Obituary
The Section observed a minute of silence for Felix Obugu, the late University Librarian of Witwatersrand University, Johannesburg, South Africa, who passed on in June 2015.

6.2 Open Forum
Africa Section had an Open Forum which was held in collaboration with the Parliamentary and Law Libraries Sections under the theme “Access to Legal Information and Legislative Data in Africa: The Role of Libraries and Librarians”.
Six papers were presented and these generated a lively discussion.

6.3 Strategic Plan
The Strategic Plan was circulated to members and the Chairperson appealed to members to forward comments and contribute towards the compilation of the 2016 Action Plan. Submissions were to be forwarded to the Secretary by mid-October in preparation for the discussion at the Mid Term Meeting to be held in February 2016 in Botswana.

6.4 Mid-Term Meeting in Botswana 2016
The Chairperson announced that the Mid-Term Meeting for 2016 would be held in Gaborone, Botswana. Dates 11th and 12th February 2016. Ms Bongiwe Magocha was the Contact person in Botswana.

6.5 Guinea Bissau at WCLI 2015
The outgoing Africa Chair sponsored the President of the Library Association of Guinea Bissau to the 2015 WLIC in Cape Town. This was an effort to strengthen the association by enabling them to come to IFLA and network for the benefit of their association.

6.6 IFLA Advocacy Meeting in Namibia
Namibia hosted a successful IFLA Advocacy Meeting in July 2015. Dr Buhle Mbambo-Thata was the facilitator. It brought the IFLA Secretary-General and other IFLA officers and high officials from Africa like the Wife of the Vice President of Ghana, who is a librarian.

6.7 Mentorship Program.
The SC meeting was briefed on the mentorship program. At the Kenya meeting, it had been suggested that strong and weak National Associations in Africa develop partnerships that would provide for experience sharing in order to move the LIS profession forward. Partnership could be on a North – South basis, for example, Kenya and Sweden as well on a South-South basis. The Section encouraged south-south twinning. Suggestions included South Africa - Swaziland, Kenya - Rwanda, Nigeria-Gambia and Ghana-Sierra Leone. It was reported that Professor Angus of Mt Kenya University was already partnering with Rwanda, South Africa was already mentoring Swaziland, which is now a member of LIASA, and finally that Ghana and Sierra Leone were already working together.

6.8 Africa Section Progress
The outgoing Chair, Dr Okojie gave a summary of some of the successes of her two terms as Chair.
1. Building Strong Libraries Programme in some parts of Africa for example in Cameroon and Botswana.

2. Africa Section Support to attend IFLA WLIC- Guinea Bissau Library Association National President was supported and assisted to come to Cape Town to attend IFLA Congress in 2015.

3. The following networks came to being during her tenure. AfLIA, African Public Libraries Network, IFLA Advocacy Program (In Namibia), International Professional Leaders Program, Honored Dr Helena Asamoah Hassan, Ellen Tise, the Committee of Elders of SC, opened a Bank Account in South Africa.

6.9 SPARC, AFRICA CHAPTER
Scholarly Publishing and Academic Resources Coalition (SPARC), AFRICA Chapter was launched in Cape Town on August 16, 2015. It was reported that there was need to elect leadership to lead this standalone Project. It was created with the hope that it would engage the rest of Africa.

6.10 LIS Education Group
Professor Ismail Abdullahi raised the challenges that were facing Library educators and he gave a short history of the LIS Education group plus its special relationship with the Africa Section. However, the Section felt the discussions could continue outside the meeting to advise on how best to proceed - whether to bring it back as a SIG under Africa Section or ask Division V to lobby the new President-elect for assistance. Other suggestions were that it could consider joining AfLIA.

6.11: IFLA President Sinikka Sipilä’s Theme
The IFLA president attended the second Africa SC meeting and appreciated all the support this section had given during her tenure. She was particularly grateful for the symposium that was organized on her theme that remains very memorable. The outcome of the symposium organized in Namibia on President Sipila’s theme, “Strong Libraries Strong Societies”, was a book, copies of which were distributed at the Cape Town WLIC 2015.

CAPE TOWN DECLARATION

Cape Town, South Africa—14 August 2015

We, the Ministers and country representatives from Angola, Burkina Faso, Cape Verde, Cote D’Ivoire Lesotho, Guinea, Madagascar, Malawi, Mozambique, Nigeria, South Africa, South Sudan and Swaziland met to discuss the status of libraries and implementation of access to information agenda on 14 August 2015 in Cape Town, Republic of South Africa. The IFLA President, AfLIA President and national librarians were also present;

Deliberated on the status of libraries in the continent and the progress required to meet the global sustainable development goals;

Inspired by the principles enshrined in the Charter for African Cultural Renaissance and global sustainable development agenda;

Inspired by the level of commitment to prioritise and resource libraries as part of Africa Agenda 2063;

Aware that resources are still a challenge in most countries;

Mindful that libraries around the world are powerful knowledge partners in delivering services like literacy, ICT skills and local knowledge to communities;

Recognised that conflict, instability and underdevelopment on the continent, hinder free flow of information, skills transfer and people to people contacts;

Reminded that access to information is a universal human right and a basic tool for sustainable development;
Noted the need for the improvement of library services for the blind and people with sight impairment as well as other forms of impairment; and,

Welcomed the IFLA position regarding the post 2015 sustainable development agenda.

We thereby commit to:

Provide the necessary resources for the development of African libraries to respond to modern day challenges and provide access to emerging technologies;

Support the establishment of a Pan African library organisation to provide a platform for networking and resource mobilisation;

Encourage the establishment of institutional partnerships between libraries in the continent for exchange of knowledge and experiences;

Fast-track implementation of continental innovative strategies to improve ICT and knowledge management;

Encourage the implementation of fair and balanced copyright laws to facilitate access to Information for all;

Fast-track the implementation of the outcomes of Library Summits held in 2011, 2013 and 2015 Respectively;

Support the work of the African Library and Information Association and Institutions (AFLIA); and National Libraries, National Library Services, National Library Associations and Councils;

Encourage the use of e-books and virtual libraries more effectively to facilitate cultural and Scientific exchange and encourage a culture of reading in the continent;
Promote library policies on access to information as part of a universal human rights approach as well as rights of people to knowledge;

Encourage the development and promotion of local content in African libraries as part of the promotion of African Renaissance and Pan Africanism;

Encourage the sharing of skills, collection and preservation of African stories from our own communities;

Commit that the African Ministers responsible for arts and culture, libraries and access to information will meet regularly;

Adopted In Cape Town, Republic of South Africa on 14 August 2015.
