5. Applicant profile (maximum 500 words)

The Bulgarian Library and Information Association (BLIA) is a non-governmental organization of specialists in the library and information sector. BLIA has 16 regional chapters in the country, and 5 specialized sections (Sociological Research, School Libraries, American Experience for Bulgaria, Bibliology, and a Youth Section). It has 1093 individual and 82 institutional members. Membership is open to librarians of all types of libraries, including professionals as well as to library workers without degree.

BLIA unites professionals to work together on:
- participating in the development of national library and information policy;
- advocating for libraries and their new role in cultural, educational and social sectors;
- guaranteeing universal access to information;
- enhancing the social status and provide professional protection of library and information specialists;
- promoting implementation of new technologies for preservation and access to cultural heritage;
- developing a system for continuing education.

BLIA’s activities include: National Library Week, National Marathon of Reading, training programs, professional publications, annual conferences, national and international projects for introducing new services to users, research projects, leadership in library advocacy. Among the most recent achievements of BLIA are The Public Libraries Act, The Legal Deposit Act, and the partnership in the “Global Libraries – Bulgaria” Program (funded by Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation).

The Association was founded in 1990. Since then it has operated on a voluntary basis with only one part-time admin secretary. Since May 2010, the Association has been working with 4 full-time staff members thanks to the America for Bulgaria Foundation’s (ABF) grant. The ABF funded the BLIA’s 4-year project “Advancement and sustainable development of the library sector in Bulgaria”.

BLIA manages the Centre for Continuing Education for Librarians in cooperation with the Library & Information School at the Sofia University.
6. Country profile (maximum 300 words)

The transition from totalitarian regime to democratic government and free market has been uneven and hard for the majority of the Bulgarian citizens. Bulgaria joined the EU in 2007. Contrary to citizens’ expectations, governance, justice, healthcare and education have not reached the desired level. Bulgarian legislation has been harmonized with the EU’s one. The state administration, private companies and NGOs are striving to absorb the EU funds, but they remain unused to a very large extent because of the deficit of leadership and skills for project planning and management. The global financial crisis affected severely the cultural and educational sector in Bulgaria, which resulted in very poor acquisitions of library materials and lack of funding for continuing education.

The overall number of libraries in Bulgaria is approximately 4,452 (public, academic, special, and school). The network of public libraries (2,722) covers all regions and municipalities, with the National Library being on the top. Three universities offer education in library science.

A national strategy on the development of the library and information sector is still to be developed.

Because of the diverse institutional subordination of libraries in Bulgaria and the lack of a national coordinating body, library development has been left to librarians themselves over the past 20 years. The Bulgarian Library and Information Association (BLIA) has been leading the advocacy efforts of the library community for adequate library legislation.

In 2009, Bulgarian Parliament passed the Public Library Act, which regulates funding mechanisms for public libraries, functions of the territorial networks, free Internet access, and qualification requirements for librarians. At the moment, the Ministry of Culture, with the participation of BLIA experts, is working on standards for public libraries in Bulgaria.

7. Needs assessment (maximum 300 words)

The Public Library Act of 2009 introduces a new structure: municipal library which assumes coordinating functions (training, consulting, collecting statistics, resource sharing) toward the smaller libraries on the municipal territory (each municipality encompasses from 1 to 20 settlements). The municipal library appears third in the hierarchy of the public libraries’ system (after the National library and 28 regional libraries).

Currently, these libraries (264) do not have capacity to fulfil the new mission: they do not manage a budget of their own and do not have independence in decision making as they belong to larger cultural institutions. For their staff for over 20 years continuing education has been an exception rather than a systematic practice. Special training in leadership is a must, to encourage library officers to become proactive leaders of their local communities. To be able to offer training in leadership, BLIA needs to prepare at least 12 trainers ready to deliver workshops throughout the country.

The ALP would complement our efforts in two ways:

- The Training Centre of BLIA offers management courses, but still does not have enough prepared trainers in leadership. Leadership skills are deficit in all walks of life in Bulgaria, especially in the cultural sphere.
- BLIA’s budget allows maintaining of the training facilities and paying the cost for trainers, but does not provide travel, accommodation and per diem of the trainees. 80% of the potential trainees are unable to find resources to attend.
Strengths of the library community: willingness to learn, develop skills, respond to the changing needs of citizens. Librarians gladly unite around visionary leaders and work cooperatively and voluntarily for a common cause.

Main challenge: severe underfunding for all types of libraries (lowest funding among the EU countries) and therefore inability to attract users with old collections and poor facilities.

8. Project purpose, design and activities

The purpose of the project is to

- prepare 12 trainers in leadership through Train of Trainers (TOT) workshop
- conduct one pilot workshop for municipal public library leaders by the trained trainers

Steps:

1. TOT. The 3-day TOT will be delivered by a team of:
   - one international trainer, selected or recommended by IFLA (preferably from an EU country: to align leadership requirements for 21 c. with the EU library and information policies and the best practices from EU countries)
   - one Bulgarian trainer, selected by BLIA: to customize the program with the local needs and the Bulgarian realities.

2. Pilot training for 20 municipal library leaders (2 days).

After the TOT, 2 of the trainers will conduct pilot training for 20 municipal librarians at one of the Regional Libraries in Bulgaria.

3. During the TOT (1) and the Pilot training (2) a team of BLIA’s sociology experts will be working on the assessment of the teaching methods, communications, performance, and results. The evaluation report will be submitted at the end of the project.

4. The project will continue beyond the time funded. The ALP funded trainings will be a beginning of a multiyear training project of BLIA. The “Leadership for municipal librarians” workshop will be integrated into the curriculum of BLIA’s Centre for Continuing Education for Librarians (CCEL). The workshop program will be enriched with conclusions and lessons learned from the Pilot training of 20 (step 2), as presented in the project evaluation report (step 3).

CCEL will use the already trained 12 trainers (step 1) to cover the rest of the municipalities over the next couple of years. Gradually, all municipal library leaders (264) will be given opportunity to participate in leadership training. These trainings will be organized by BLIA and deliver onsite (at regional and municipal libraries with the assistance of the regional units of BLIA).

Possible topics and core concepts to be covered during the TOT workshop:

Content – in 2 days
- What is to be a library leader in 21 century? – vision, global and local understanding, goals.
- Leadership is not only an inherited talent; effective leadership skills could be nurtured and polished.
- Motivating your staff
- Reaching out local authorities and communities
- A place at the table of the local stakeholders.

Methodology- 1 day
- Teaching adults
- Unlocking potential skills
- Self-confidence boost!
BLIA will discuss creative ideas and improvements of the proposed program with the two key trainers (to be selected later).

Outcomes of the TOT:

- a team of 12 prepared and self-confident trainers in library leadership of 21 century able to deliver training to municipal librarians without managerial and leadership experience;
- successful pilot design of leadership training that will be applied in multiple locations in the next couple of years.

Outcomes of the pilot leadership training for 20 municipal librarians:

The municipal library managers
- will be convinced that the leadership qualities are crucial for achieving each and every goal; these are qualities that could be nurtured, not necessarily inherited;
- will realise the value of the continuing education and will be encouraged to pursue personal and professional development;
- will realise that the Library Association is their voice, advisor, and resource for development.

The workshop would encourage them to:
- unlock potential leadership talents;
- communicate effectively with local authorities;
- create the necessary environment in the community that will support the library;
- seek support from the local business;
- implement in practice the stipulations of the Public library Act 2009.

Selection of 12 trainers to be trained:

BLIA already has a pool of 10 public librarians who have been trained to deliver management training under a British Council project. BLIA has witnessed and evaluated their performance as trainers and will invite the best of them to participate in leadership training. In addition, BLIA will announce a competition for new librarians to join the team of trainers. Candidates with suitable experience and good motivation will be interviewed. Criteria for final selection include:
- demonstration of teaching skills;
- evidence of leadership potential;
- communicative skills.

To attract and retain young librarians, BLIA is empowering its Youth Section. The section activists will help us identify early career and resourceful librarians to participate in TOT in leadership.

Selection of a Regional Library for a pilot training of 20 municipal librarians:

- to be in region which has largest number of municipalities (20). The group of trainees will have representatives from small, medium-size and large municipalities – important prerequisite for the project objective assessment.
• to offer suitable training facilities (provided for free for BLIA’s trainings).

Promotion and progress report:

Announcements, promotion and regular information for the library community will be delivered through BLIA’s web site, the monthly BLIA newsletter, and the print journal Biblioteka.

The municipal administrations (to which the participating libraries are affiliated) will be informed through the National Association of Municipalities, a partner of BLIA in other projects as well.

The local communities of the participating librarians will be informed about the results through media – press releases, interviews of the participating librarians, etc.

9. Project logistics

9.1 Cost and ease of international transport
The workshop with an international trainer will be conducted in Sofia, the capital city of Bulgaria. There are convenient flight connections to Sofia from any part of Europe, every day. The cost for flight ticket will not exceed 800 Euros. There is a hotel next to the BLIA office, with Internet connection and easy transportation to all parts of the city.

9.2 IT capacity and infrastructure in the country
The training centre of BLIA has wireless Internet connection. The Regional public libraries which will host cascade trainings for the municipal library leaders are fully equipped with ICT facilities. The municipal libraries (end users of our projects) are going to be connected and equipped by the Global Libraries-Bulgaria program, funded by the BMGF.

9.3 Capacity, makeup and skillset of in-country project team including ability to evaluate and report on the impact of the project
The project team is the 4-staff members of BLIA plus a BLIA member and activist, experienced in assessment of BLIA’s qualification programs. The team is experienced in organization and delivery of trainings in Sofia and throughout the country. All members of the team have extensive professional experience and administer all projects and programs of the Association.

9.4 Language and capacity for translation
The primary language is Bulgarian. Simultaneous translation is needed during the workshop with the international trainer. In such cases, BLIA hires professional interpreters.

9.5 Cultural context and sensitive content – no special issues to be concerned.

9.6 Which institution do you propose to host activities, such as workshops and meetings?
BLIA has recently opened a newly equipped training centre with wireless Internet, 2 laptops, projector, a flipchart, movable desks, and adjacent reading room with 2 additional computer stations.

9.7 Where are these facilities located, and are the facilities suitable for hosting activities
The training centre is a part of BLIA headquarters, located in an convenient place in the city, between two hotels, with plenty of transportation facilities. For details, please see the attached letter by BLIA’s President.

The pilot training for 20 municipal librarians will be held at a Regional Library – 70 % of the regional libraries offer the required training facilities. They will be also modernized with equipment provided by the BMGF program in Bulgaria.

9.8 In-country financial arrangements including payments and international bank transfers.
Payments through credit cards are possible in all hotels and most of the shops. International bank transfers are available.

10. Project support
The Bulgarian Library and Information Association is both an applicant and a host institution for the ALP grant. Attached is a letter by the President, outlining the facilities.

BLIA has an agreement with the Regional Public Libraries to participate in the cascade training of municipal library leaders. They will provide their own training facilities for free as well as will volunteer in logistics of the seminars. The National Association of Municipalities will take part in promoting the idea of preparing library leaders, thus contributing to our advocacy efforts locally.

The project responds to the ALP Focal Point #7: Promotion of continuing professional development. That is why BLIA has contacted the IFLA Continuing Professional Development and Workplace Learning Section. A letter of support by the chair has been submitted directly to the ALP committee.

11. Proposed budget
Please attach your proposed budget and indicate costs in both your local currency and Euro sought from ALP. Any funds from additional sources towards the total project should be detailed.

Dear IFLA colleagues,

The Bulgarian Library and Information Association is both an applicant and a host institution for the ALP grant (Announced July 13th 2010, deadline for submission: Oct. 1, 2010).

The BLIA Board and the Executive Bureau is convinced that our new premises will be an excellent and most suitable place for conducting the workshop, proposed in our project.

Since July 2010, BLIA has a new headquarter, equipped with training facilities: a conference room of 50 sq. m with 30 seats and movable desks, wireless Internet, laptop, multimedia projector, white board, flipchart. Adjacent to the conference room is the reading room with 2 computer stations for BLIA's guests (members and other visitors), as well as plenty of professional magazines and monographs. The training facilities are designed to be the main location for the various activities of our Center for Continuing Education for Librarians.

The new headquarter is situated in a popular and communicative place in the capital city, between two hotels which could accommodate the workshops’ participants.

http://www.lib.bg/index.php?option=com_content&task=view&id=492&Itemid=179

The new office with the four fulltime staff members became possible thanks to the grant by the America for Bulgaria Foundation. The Foundation supported our 4-year project called "Advancement and sustainable development of the library sector in Bulgaria". The project implementation started in March 2010. The application for ALP grant is part of our goal to bring more international expertise and global view of 21 c. leadership to a larger community of small towns’ library leaders.

Sincerely,

Vanya Grashkina
President of BLIA
