The programme of the Art Libraries Section is planned under the general theme Libraries: a Voyage of Discovery. The Art Libraries Section is pleased to announce its intention to hold a 2-hour session during the conference. The theme of the session is co-ordinated with that of the Rare Books and Special Collections Section.

Art Libraries Section Programme – formal papers
Topic: C20 Visual Culture – Its Impact on Art Library Collecting
The 20th Century [C20] brought new challenges to art librarians as traditional materials continued to grow in number and type. At the same time an explosion of new media clamoured for attention. We want to explore how this wide variety of materials has affected collection policies and collecting management in art libraries.

How are issues like the following handled:
● changes in what and how libraries and archives ‘collect’
● art libraries are not just about books and information but also interpret and display related object collections
● artists’ web-sites
● changing nature of art research
● ephemera

THE FINAL CHAPTER FROM BUENOS AIRES
First World Library and Information Congress in South America a big success! Almost 4000 participants from 121 countries attended the World Library and Information Congress, the 70th General Conference of the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions, which was held in Buenos Aires from 22nd-27th August 2004.

The theme of this year’s Congress was Libraries: Tools for Education and Development, to emphasize the importance of Libraries for developing communities.

Country Representation
We are very pleased to announce that were judged on the following criteria:

- Strategic approach to marketing communications
- Creativity and innovation
- Potential for generating widespread public visibility and support for libraries
- Effectiveness illustrated by efforts to emphasize the organization's communication and marketing goals
- Commitment to ongoing marketing and public relations activities.

The committee revised the criteria to facilitate increased understanding of marketing, and participation by a broader range of countries. A new goal that was reached was to recognize marketing efforts by developing countries with fewer resources.

Who Won This Year? First place was given to the school library of Australian Islamic College, located in Kewdale, WA., Australia for using library resources to promote reading and computer literacy to 300 refugee children from Afghanistan, Iraq and Somalia. The library's slogan is “I came, I saw, I read.” The first-place winner received air-fare, lodging, and registration for the 2004 World Library and Information Congress and a cash award of US$1,000 to further the marketing efforts of the library.

Second place went to the Krasheninnikov Regional Research Library, Kamchatka, Russia, for developing and offering outreach programmes and services to the elderly and disabled in this region of the country who are psychologically and socially vulnerable. The library's campaign is called, “Remedy for the Soul.” Third place went to the African Rice Center in Abidjan, Ivory Coast, for its project to offer current information to the agricultural researchers in the National Agricultural System (NARS) in West Africa.

Space only permits the highlighting of a few of the many professional and social events that took place, but it was a busy and profitable time for all, and an excellent opportunity for the exchange of ideas with colleagues from those parts of the world who do not regularly attend the WLIC. It was the first conference where many of the newly formed Sections, previously Round Tables, had the opportunity to hold sessions and committee meetings and to prepare their programmes for the future in an election year when they will achieve parity with all the other sections, with duly elected Chairs and Secretaries and full committees. It was also the first opportunity for the new Core Activity, the CDNL-IFLA Alliance known as ICABS, to present its programme and inform the delegates of its activities.
The Plenary Sessions were outstanding with all seats taken both for Adolfo Perez Esquivel, the Argentinian Nobel Peace prize winner and for Ismail Serageldin, Director of the Bibliotheca Alexandrina. It was similarly standing room only for the Newcomers to IFLA session.

One of the many pleasing features of the organization was the day dedicated to student attendance, an opportunity that was enthusiastically taken up by a large student delegation. The conference also saw the convening of the Young Professionals Discussion Group, all of which emphasizes the importance that is attached to the younger or newer generation of librarians.

The volunteers with their red tee shirts were highly visible, ready to assist on every occasion and remained cheerful throughout what must have been an exhausting week for them. The library visits were very popular and were well organized and the shuttle bus between the two hotels, together with the remarkably cheap yellow cabs, eased the flow between meetings in the two locations considerably. The social occasions were enjoyed by all and especially the fantastic, energy-filled cultural evening at the Opera.

One of the new features of this conference was the raffle, organized by asking delegates to bring gifts from their own countries to be raffled to raise funds to pay for delegates from the developing world to attend future IFLA conferences. It raised a very satisfactory US $4000. Thanks are especially due to Sissel Nilssen and Ellen Tise who were responsible for devising it and to all the IFLA staff who added the task of managing it to all the other tasks that they carry out so efficiently and unobtrusively throughout the conference.

The eight Divisions all worked hard as well as playing hard, both in their committee meetings where they developed their policy for the next couple of years and in their open programmes, and the same is true of the Core Activities, all of which put on interesting and well attended sessions. Great efforts were made to ensure that as many papers as possible were translated into Spanish, or into English if delivered by Spanish speakers, and the Professional Committee was pleased to earmark some of its budget to ensure that this was achieved. A record number of sessions had simultaneous interpretation. There was also a pleasing increase in the number of sections holding joint sessions, in line with the new policy proposed by the Professional Committee.

All took advantage of the Latin American environment, both in the organization of satellite meetings, for example that of the Management and Marketing Section in Sao Paulo, Brazil, attended by almost 250 participants from 26 countries, with papers translated into 4 languages, Portuguese, English, Spanish and French and the conference held in the Universidad de San Andres, Buenos Aires, where 45 participants from 20 countries met to advance the IFLA International Cataloguing Principles to replace the 1961 Paris Principles.

Similarly, in the main conference programme, there was a pervading Latin American theme. Parliamentary Libraries founded the Latin American Association of Parliamentary Libraries. The contrast between the role of national libraries in different parts of the world was highlighted by the case of Trinidad and Tobago, where the national library runs the public and school library service, as is normal in the Caribbean and in other parts of the world, unlike the European situation. Multicultural Libraries spent a whole day highlighting the Library Service for Multicultural populations in Latin America and the Caribbean. There was a story-telling session in Spanish and English organized by the School Libraries Section and Intercultural, Bilingual Education and the development of indigenous libraries in Latin America was the theme of the Multicultural Section.

The Classification and Indexing Section included a report on SACO in Latin America and a paper from Mexico in its programme and the Preservation and Conservation and Audiovisual Sections held a joint programme which included video and audio presentations from organizations in Brazil, Chile and Uruguay. The Division of Education and Research paid a well organized visit to the LIS Research Institute (INIBI) of the University of Buenos Aires, and papers in Spanish and English marked a high degree of exchange and marked the beginning of collaboration which will be continued in the Divisions’ activities and publications.

Record attendances were recorded at many of the sessions and a wide range of publications was reported from the various sections, not least the publication of the Children’s and Young Adults Guidelines in Spanish and English.

The Telecentres Workshop proved a great success and generated considerable interest and the President-elect explored his theme of partnership in a session that had contributors from all sections of the IFLA community from members of the Governing Board to First-timers.

The poster sessions proved as popular as ever and provided many insights into the situation in Latin America. Five were marked out by the judges for special mention, with the winner being “Young library volunteers: from passive users to active designers”, presented by Verena Tibljas of Croatia. The winner of the Best newsletter prize was Library & Research Services for Parliaments, and the Section was presented with a copy of their winning newsletter specially bound by Kelly Moore of IFLA Headquarters staff.

All in all, it was a memorable conference and one that will remain in the IFLA corporate memory as its first visit to South America. As the president said of her first conference as president, one can never forget one’s first baby and there is nothing like it!

The IFLA/FAIFE Theme Report 2004
Libraries for lifelong literacy. Unrestricted access to information as a basis for lifelong learning and empowerment was launched at a press conference on 24th August in Buenos Aires. The report is the fourth volume of the IFLA/FAIFE World Report Series.

Professor Paul Sturges, Chair of the IFLA/FAIFE Committee, said: “In this Theme Report our authors explore the relationship between unrestricted access to information and lifelong literacy in a wide variety of ways. Their approaches, however, have an underlying link in common. Each approach seeks to tell us something important about the way information nourishes the skills that a human being requires to function as an autonomous actor in the world . . . This is why freedom of access to information is such an important ideal for society and why it has come to be identified as a human right”.

The Theme Report 2004 presents visions on how libraries can promote literacy and lifelong learning. The literacy process has to be recognised as inclusive of all ranges of communication, and it occurs at all levels and ages of societies, whether they are predominantly oral societies or have a culture of reading as a basis for accessing information. Such an approach will create a fundamental shift and redress the denial of a right of access to information, by most librarians, for millions of people who rely on orality as their equivalent of the lifelong literacy process.

More information about the report and ordering details can be found on www.ifla.org/faife.

Russia

The main event of a world scale for organizations of theatrical sphere became the FIRT Congress As it is known, it was held in St. Petersburg in May. The best premises, namely lecture – halls of the Academy of Theatre Art, Alexandrinsky drama theatre, the St. Petersburg theatre library, were given to specialists from every corner of the globe for their meetings. The working groups and panels “Historiography” and “From page to stage” were held in the library. But in order to generalize the events in the life of theatre libraries, museums, archives let’s return to the past year.

At the end of November the Russian State Art library, the priorities of which are theatre and other performing arts, held the 3d International Mikhoels readings. This scientific conference was dedicated to the memory of Solomon Mikhoels, the great actor and stage-director. And while the first conference was a memorial one, the second readings collected specialists studying the problem of the national theatre in Russia. A collection of the Proceedings of the Conference is being prepared. It contains the following articles:

1. The murder of Michael: new point of view. G. Kostychenko, Ph.D., Institute of Russian history, the Russian Academy of Sciences.
3. Concerning some Russian – Jewish phenomenon (Etel Kovenskaya, an actress). M. Geizer, Ph.D., director of S. Marshak pedagogical college (Moscow).
4. Moscow International Solomon Mikhoels festival of arts in the context of the new Russian history. I. Gavunova, Honoured Art Worker of Russia, director general of “Unity”, a charitable fund of support of the native culture (Moscow).
5. Baron Rudolf Uhngern, the stage-director of the Russian drama theatre (Riga), 1926-1940. V. Ivanov, Ph.D., The State Institute of study of art (Moscow).
6. German comedies of 1740s (written and staged). L. Starikova, Ph.D., the State Institute of study of art.
7. Documents of the National Archive of Republic Byelorussia as a source of history of the multinational theatre. V. Skalaban, Ph.D., the National Archive of Republic Byelorussia (Minsk).
8. The Latvian theatre in Russia in the period of the World War I and Civil War (1915-1922). T. Bartele, Ph.D., the Riga branch of the St. Petersburg Institute of foreign economical relations, economy and law (Riga, Latvia).
9. Mikhoels’s gesture. I. Pekhovich, an actor, Taganka theatre (Moscow).
10. A. Levitin’s collection in the museum of the Jaroslavl State drama theatre named for E. Volkov. O. Polozneva, the head of the museum of the E. Volkov state drama theatre (Jaroslavl).
11. The State Polish theatre in Kiev. G. Devyatova, a senior scientific worker, A. Bakhrushin theatre museum (Moscow).
12. The sense and significance of S. Jushevik’s drama “Meserere” in the repertoire of the Moscow Art Theatre (1910). N. Balatova, Bachelor of Arts, the Central scientific library of the Russian Theatre Workers’ Union (Moscow).
13. Sources on the history of the Jewish theatre in the collections of Judaic Institute. N. Drojazko, a scientific worker, the Judaic Institute (Kiev, Ukraine).
14. School performances in dead languages (the second half of 19th c. – the beginning of 20th c.). M. Junisov, Bachelor of Arts, the State Institute of study of art.
15. A. Tysheks’s work on his staging of the play “King Lear”. E. Selivanova, the Central scientific library of the Russian Theatre Workers’ Union (Moscow).
16. The personality in the space of theatre culture. Sophia Shamardina. A. Kavko, Ph.D., the Moscow union of specialists in Byelorussian philology (Moscow).
17. The German theatre in St. Petersburg cultural life of 19th c. Ju. Prestenskaya, the head of the Section of rare books, St. Petersburg theatre library (St. Petersburg).
18. About F. Ranevskaya’s letter to S. Mikhoels. A. Kolganova, Bachelor of Arts, the director of the Russian State Art library. In November of this year the Russian State Art library holds the regular scientific conference. The 6th theatre book research readings is dedicated to a new problem: “Theatre book between the past and future” held in 17th-19th November, 2004. The issue of the meetings of the present year is “Theatre in book and computer media”.

A wide range of problems is traditionally proposed:

1. Types and peculiarities of book and magazine publications about the theatre (variety art, circus and other performing arts) of the last years: the repertoire, dictionaries and encyclopedias, periodicals, memoirs, scientific editions, text-books, bibliographical indices, small repertoire and methodical book collections for children and amateur theatres, etc.
2. The theatre in the press (the round table “Theatre reviews: the image of the theatre or the reviewer’s figure?”);
3. The theatre process in the mirror of publicity: from the theatre poster to the banner; from the playbill to the detailed booklet, a brief illustrated “monograph”; historical experience and change of priorities;
4. New and old institutions of the theatre (private theatrical agencies, festivals, yearly prizes, funds) in publications; problems of collecting, storing in archives and compiling bibliographies;
5. The theatre and performing arts in Internet, virtual theatre museums and collections, sites of theatres, forums; computer resources on art; computerization of the theatre process;
6. Information needs of theatre specialists of different categories and organisation of specialized library and archive funds in the present conditions; new subject systems for publications about the theatre and for the theatre.

A special meeting (17th November) will be devoted to the fortieth anniversary of the Taganka Theatre. Within the framework of the readings the presentation of books and computer resources, sites and software is planned. The Russian State Art library invites specialists in the home and foreign theatre, workers of theatres, libraries and archives, bibliographers and book researchers, publishers and editors of magazines, web-designers and programmers to take part in the readings. The papers will be published in full in the Conference Proceedings.
A valuable contribution to a study of stocks of documents dedicated to theatre was made at the International seminar, the theme of which was “Stocks of photodocuments: preservation, safekeeping, tasks of indentification”. The seminar was held in February 26th-27th, 2004 at the Russian State Art library in cooperation with the Federal Centre of conservation of library stocks under support of the Goethe Institute. It was organized within the framework of the Art library Section of the Russian Library Association. More, than 60 specialists were present at the Section. Specialists in preservation and restoration of photodocuments and workers of other libraries, museums and archives from Russia, Germany and Netherlands took part in the seminar. W. Rodenhuis, a member of SIBMAS, also participated in it. Russian librarians consider the activity in safekeeping and conservation of stocks one of the main professional priorities. The task of a library is preservation of all its stocks, which are often very diverse. In order to preserve the collection of photodocuments properly it is necessary to understand what we need to preserve. Aspects of acquisition, preservation, peculiarities of defects of photodocuments were considered at the seminar. All the reports were listened to with interest. The report on copyright in the information era made by Willem Rodenhuis, the head of the theatre, cinema and TV department of the Amsterdam University library sounded extremely important and opportune. Interrelation between a user and documents is an interesting polemic subject because it is not completely worked out. The report on principles of conservation and safekeeping of photodocuments made by S. Dobrushina, the director of the Centre, roused a keen response. The Federal Centre of conservation of library stocks worked out “the certificate of safety” for photodocuments. It served as a base for creating the software and “Fotograph” database. This software provides entry, edit, search and output of the information of a photography given in the certificate of safety in the file or on printer. This work of developing such a database will be started at the Russian State Art library this year. Among other issues of the seminar there were the following ones appeared to be particularly important: – “Electronic library of photodocuments as means of providing their conservation and accessibility”; – “Identification of photodocuments”; – “Preservation and restoration of unique photodocuments”. Within the framework of the seminar the following two exhibitions were held: “Theatrical photographers and photographs” from the stocks of the Russian State Art library; “Russia seen by Germans and Germany seen by Russians” organized by the Goethe Information Cultural Centre in Moscow. The issue of theatre stocks and archives was considered in a number of papers at the 9th Conference of the Russian Library Association (the Section of Art Libraries) and at the 11th International Crimean Conference (Sudak, Ukraine). The annual section “Museums and libraries in the common space of information and culture”.

Rapport national – Bibliothèques d’art françaises

Vie des bibliothèques
– Après 10 années de travaux d’extension et de rénovation, le musée national de Préhistoire des Eyzies-de-Tayac vient de rouvrir. Les nouveaux bâtiments ont été inaugurés le 19 juillet 2004. A l’occasion de cette importante transformation, le centre de documentation, complément indispensable du musée, a été installé au second étage du bâtiment de la conservation. Il a fait l’objet d’un réaménagement complet qui permettra désormais d’accueillir dans la salle de lecture de la bibliothèque, conservateurs, chercheurs, étudiants de 3ème cycle, ainsi que les personnes qui en formuleraient la demande auprès du directeur du musée. Avec un fonds de 12,000 ouvrages et plus de 200 titres de périodiques anciens et actuels, la bibliothèque du musée est l’une des plus importantes bibliothèques françaises et internationales spécialisées dans le domaine de la Préhistoire, et plus particulièrement dans celui de la période paléolithique. La bibliothèque conserve également archives, correspondances, carnets de fouilles, plans et autres documents.

– Inauguré au mois de juin 2004, le Centre national de la danse (CND), institution qui mène culture chorégraphique, création, diffusion et pédagogie, s’est doté d’une vaste médiathèque ouverte à tout public. Cumulant les fonctions d’une bibliothèque spécialisée de recherche, d’une bibliothèque publique et d’une bibliothèque de patrimoine, la médiathèque couvre les danses des XXe et XXIe siècles. La salle de lecture compte 30 places assises et 16 places de consultation audiovisuelle ainsi que 6 box en sous-sol. Les collections sont composées de documents de différentes natures: livres, périodiques, cassettes vidéo et DVD, disques et cédéroms, partitions musicales et chorégraphiques, affiches et photographies, dossiers documentaires, coupures et dossiers de presse, manuscrits et archives privées et enfin documents numériques.

Un catalogue en ligne des ouvrages, vidéos et DVD, ainsi qu’un catalogue détaillé des collections de périodiques permettent d’affectuer des recherches documentaires précises, d’identifier les documents en réserve et de connaître ceux qui sont disponibles pour le prêt.

Outre la mise à disposition sur le web du catalogue de sa bibliothèque, l’Inha a également mis en ligne une base de données GAAEL (Guide des archives d'artistes en ligne). Cet outil, unique en France, permet de localiser sur le territoire national les fonds d'archives des artistes, collectionneurs et galeries de la période contemporaine (après 1870) conservés dans des institutions accessibles aux chercheurs. Il donne des informations sur leur contenu, leur importance matérielle et leurs conditions d'accès. www.inha.fr/gaael/

L'institut réalise depuis peu et met à disposition des internautes une sélection de sites Internet. United Kingdom & Ireland Report

ARLIS/UK & Ireland annual reports for 2003, published in the ARLIS News-sheet January/February 2004, p. 10-15, provide a detailed account of the Society’s activities over the past year. Since then our main activities and initiatives are as follows:

- Our 2004 annual conference on the theme of staff development ‘Meeting the Skills Challenge’ was held at St. Catherine’s College, Oxford. The conference theme aimed to assist art and design librarians confront the challenges of a rapidly changing professional environment. Topics such as knowledge management, teaching skills for librarians, web content authorship, to name but a few, aimed to introduce recent developments in theory and in practice, and assist in career development choices. Most of the papers and presentations are available on the website at www.arlis.org.uk. Next year’s conference will be held at Aston University, Birmingham and will focus on the ‘creative industries’, with sessions on creative communities, partnerships, funding and library initiatives.

- In 2004 ARLIS established an Annual Conference International Award designed to encourage attendance by overseas professionals. The award consists of a fully-funded place at the conference, excluding travel costs. Application details are available on our website.

We have recently re-examined our strategic aims, objectives and core values in order to provide direction to the Society’s work for the period 2004-2007. Again, details are available on our website.

- Our latest publication is ‘First Steps in Archives: a practical guide’. This was compiled by the ARLIS/UK & Ireland Visual Archives Committee and is a straightforward introduction to the key principles of archive work, designed for anyone whose collections include archive material but who has no formal training in this area. It includes contributions from experienced archivists on the core subjects of acquisitions and appraisal, cataloguing, preservation, reader services and marketing, as well as a glossary of archive terms.

ARLIS has recently formed a Marketing and Development Group to promote the Society and disseminate information about its work and activities as widely as possible, and also to maximise sponsorship for ARLIS activities.

Our contact details have changed: from 1st April, 2004 ARLIS appointed a new full-time Administrator, Anna Mellows. The ARLIS Office is now based in Central London at the Courtauld Institute of Art. Margaret Young, Chair, ARLIS/UK & Ireland

IFLA Announcements

Message from the President, Kay Raseroka

IFLA’s Three Pillars: Society, Members and Profession

At its meeting this December, the Governing Board decided to endorse a new model for IFLA’s operations, the three pillars, which recognises that IFLA’s core functions relate to the societal contexts in which libraries and information services operate, IFLA’s membership and professional matters. These three pillars are supported by the infrastructure offered by IFLA HQ, IFLANET and the Federation’s governance structures.

- The Society Pillar focuses on the role and impact of libraries and information services in society and the contextual issues that condition and constrain the environment in which they operate across the world. Those issues are addressed currently through FAIFE, CLM, Blue Shield, and our advocacy in the World Summit on the Information Society (WSIS) and other arenas. Next year, of course, we will need to place particular emphasis on the World Summit on the Information Society in which IFLA has invested so much and to such good effect. We must capitalise on that investment and those results so that we take full advantage of the second phase leading up to the November 2005 summit meeting in Tunis and to the achieve the longer term goals.

- The Profession Pillar focuses on the issues covered by the long established Core Activities – ALP, ICABS, PAC, UNIMARC – and the Sections and Divisions. They lie at the core of our professional practice and help libraries and information services to fulfill their purposes and to shape responses to the needs of clients in a rapidly changing global environment.

- The Members Pillar is of course central to IFLA. It includes the services we offer to members, management of their membership of IFLA, conferences and publications. We must work together to make IFLA more vibrant and attractive and beneficial for members throughout the world.

Of course, all three pillars and the underlying infrastructure are interdependent and not mutually exclusive. They offer a way of understanding and presenting IFLA holistically to the library and information sector and to governments and the wider community. The pillars should also provide the framework for IFLA’s management and their focus should be reflected in program based budgeting.

Working parties of the Governing Board are focussing on the Society Pillar, the improvement of IFLANET and the new approach to budget management with actions to be identified early in 2005. These priorities recognise the crucial significance of WSIS, WIPO and other current advocacy initiatives, the vital importance of IFLANET as a medium for engagement and communication within the Federation and beyond and the need for more contemporary approaches to management and finances. The other pillars and areas of activity will be tackled subsequently.

As announced, Mr. Ramachandran has resigned from the position of Secretary-General. Mr. Sjoerd Koopman, the Coordinator of Professional Activities has been appointed acting Secretary-General while a new Secretary-General is being sought. Sjoerd will continue the process of change and support the re-framing of IFLA’s programs over the coming months. Any issues relating to IFLA activities should be referred to Mr. Koopman at ifla@ifla.org.

At this time, as the process of change in IFLA accelerates, it is important that we should all work to strengthen our Federation. We need to build the resources to undertake fully the priorities which IFLA members have signalled especially a strong advocacy program, flourishing professional activities, valued membership benefits and effective infrastructure. All members need to join with IFLA staff and elected leaders to help secure the required financial strength which will allow us to achieve these goals. All need to promote IFLA and its priorities – and particularly, at this time, the World Summit on the Information Society.

And, finally, if we are to achieve these aims we need the best possible governance so we encourage the nomination of committed colleagues from around the world to the positions on Standing Committees, to the Governing Board and for President elect by the closing date of 2nd February, 2005. They should be nominated not as sectoral representatives or representatives or particular countries or regions but as strong candidates who represent the best of our profession, reflect its diversity and will be able to make significant contributions to its development through a strong and effective IFLA.

It has been announced that Prof. Peter J. Lor will take up the appointment from 15th February, 2005

Nouvelle publication

Index des catalogues d’art parus au Canada au XIXe siècle

La Bibliothèque du Musée des beaux-arts du Canada vient de publier le sixième de ses documents hors-série, l’Index des catalogues d’art parus au Canada au XIXe siècle, en deux volumes. L’Index est un incomparable outil de référence, qui facilitera l’identification, la datation et l’établissement de l’historique des œuvres, favorisant ainsi la recherche sur l’histoire de la création artistique, le collectionnisme d’art et le marché de l’art dans le Canada du XIXe siècle. Il comprend 43,629 notices pour les œuvres de 4,545 artistes, dans 266 catalogues, datés de 1823 à 1899. Il recense tout ce qui subsiste de catalogues d’expositions, de ventes aux enchères et de collections permanentes.
Research Centre in Textiles collections can access multiple shots of the same object to browse via AHDS Visual Arts. The Material Collection at the Constance Howard Resource and Research Centre in Textiles focuses on the personal and prized textiles donated by the internationally renowned embroidery artist Constance Howard, former Head of Textiles at Goldsmiths University. The eclectic collection includes textiles, some very special commissioned teaching samples, Japanese techno-fabrics and tiny fragments of lace and embroidery. Elements from within Howard’s donation represent a landmark in the history of British twentieth-century textile art because it tells a unique and distinctive story of creative risk and innovation. In addition there are nearly 200 objects from the Centre’s Slide Collection of work from textile students who studied at Goldsmiths College. The slides date from the late 1940s to the present and represent work from internationally recognised alumni.

AHDS Visual Arts is pleased to make this rich collection available for use in research, learning and teaching. Presently, the collection represents a taster of both the Material and Slide Collections held by the Constance Howard Resource and Research Centre. However, early in 2005 several thousand more images from this fascinating resource will be released along with an improved interface allowing users to access multiple shots of the same object from different angles, including details shots, alongside the current main images. Full details of the history and context of the Constance Howard Resource and Research Centre in Textiles collections can be found by ‘exploring collections’ at:

A. Our Common Vision of the Information Society
IFLA and its members share a common vision of an inclusive Information Society in which everyone can create, access, use and share information and knowledge and which is based on the fundamental right of human beings to both access and express information without restriction. Libraries and information services provide access to information, ideas and works of imagination in any medium and regardless of frontiers. They serve as gateways to knowledge, thought and culture, offering essential support for independent decision-making, cultural development, research and lifelong learning by both individuals and groups. They contribute to the development and maintenance of intellectual freedom and help to safeguard democratic values and universal civil rights. Consequently, they are committed to offering their clients access to relevant resources and services without restriction. They assist people to develop lifelong literacy – the range of competencies necessary to engage fully with the Information Society. International understanding and dialogue is supported through access to information and knowledge from other nations and cultures. IFLA and its members are committed to addressing the digital divide and the information inequality that results from it.

B. An information Society for all: key principles
1) The role of governments and all stakeholders in the promotion of ICTs for development
Libraries – and especially national, public, school and university libraries – express the aspirations of civil society, reflecting and responding to the interests and hopes of their communities.

2) Information and communication infrastructure: an essential foundation for an inclusive information society
Throughout the world, libraries and information services provide access points to the Internet for members of communities and also the support and skills development which are essential to effective use of the infrastructure and achievement of empowerment.

3) Access to information and knowledge
By enabling access to information in all formats across frontiers and through time libraries and information services create a global information commons which fosters understanding and communication, creating a globally inclusive information society in which all can express their dreams, ideas and opinions and take in those of others.

4) Capacity building
Libraries and information services provide secure, professionally supported, environments in which individuals' literacies and community capacities can be developed. IFLA, its member associations, libraries and individual information professionals have long promoted the Information Society and worked for its realisation with a special concern for the disadvantaged both across and within nations.

5) Building confidence and security in the use of ICTs
Trust and confidence between peoples and nations are maintained only in climate of understanding which is established through knowledge about others. The ‘trust framework’ and ‘cyber-security’ must therefore be firmly based on the principle of ensuring freedom of access to information and freedom of expression.

6) Enabling environment
IFLA advocates a global information commons through which all people will be enabled to seek and impart information. Its realisation requires, at a minimum, ubiquitous access to sufficient affordable bandwidth, up to date and affordable ICTs, unrestricted multilingual access to information and skills development programs to enable all to both access information and disseminate their own.

7) ICT applications: benefits in all aspects of life
Through their accessibility within communities, libraries and information services provide ideal arenas in which ICTs can be deployed and employed to benefit their communities.

8) Cultural diversity and identity, linguistic diversity and local content
Libraries and information services work in many ways and at many levels to exhibit and support cultural and linguistic identity and diversity. Demonstration of cultural diversity through library holdings and programs is particularly important to indigenous communities and in societies and nations with rich migrant traditions. Preservation of cultural heritage is core business for societies’ memory institutions: libraries, archives and museums, carrying knowledge and traditions across time and space. IFLA promotes high standards in preservation practice and engages with contemporary issues including the challenges posed by both preservation through digitisation and the preservation of digital objects.

9) Media
The presentation of a plurality of news, entertainment, scholarly and other media via libraries and information services supports the diversity of media and helps sustain an informed and engaged audience.

10) Ethical dimensions of the Information Society
The fundamental principle of the public library, that it should be open to all, underpins the strong ethical stance of library and information professionals who embrace the fundamental values of the Information Society. As agents of tolerant and inclusive civil societies, libraries and information services, and their global representative IFLA, oppose exploitative, abusive and illegal use of ICTs but are concerned that any regulatory measures should not compromise the precious rights of freedom of information and freedom of expression.

11) International and regional co-operation
IFLA is the global voice of the library and information profession which promotes collaboration in the provision of library and information services worldwide. While not taking a position on specific funding mechanisms, IFLA is very conscious of the need to take urgent and decisive action to bridge the digital divide.

C. Towards an Information Society for all based on shared knowledge
IFLA and its members are focussed on developing an equitable and inclusive Information Society which will provide opportunities for all and will be firmly based on human rights and respect for cultural and linguistic diversity. A modest investment in the worldwide network of libraries and information services would build on the existing foundation to:

- provide an extensive web of internet access points, each supported with advice and training
- offer relevant information in appropriate formats, languages and
- develop literacies and capacity
- support health and education
- promote economic development
- ensure the preservation and promotion of culture
