EDITORIAL

We are pleased to share with our readers this edition of the IFLA/LAC Newsletter containing a rich selection of regional information and news from January to June 2013.

On this occasion, we highlight events such as the IFLA Presidential Meeting 2013 was held in Mexico City under the theme Our Digital Futures, and the Mid-term Meeting of the IFLA/LAC Standing Committee was held at the Institute of Research on Library and Information Science, which was hosted in both at the National Autonomous University of Mexico.

We are pleased to announce the results of the elections of members of the IFLA Governing Board 2013 - 2015 and the IFLA President-elect, Donna Scheeder. Besides we took the opportunity to congratulate Glòria Pérez-Salmerón and Loida García-Febo for her recent appointment to the IFLA Governing Board.

We gave a special mention in this issue those efforts made by IFLA in carrying out its five Key Initiatives, although with commitment at developing the IFLA Repository, making of the IFLA Trend Report, strengthening the International Leadership Program and launching the IFLA Official Site in Spanish.

Finally, we invite you to attend the World Library and Information Congress, which will be held in Singapore from 17 to 23 August this year, and once again I appreciate your enthusiasm and collaboration in the activities of IFLA.

IFLA Presidential Meeting: Our Digital Future

The presidential meeting was held on March 6 and 7, 2013, in the National Autonomous University of Mexico. The meeting was sponsored by the UNAM Coordination of Humanities, the Institute of Research on Library and Information Science, and the General Direction of Libraries. The 2013 IFLA Presidential Meeting was organized by the IFLA Regional Office for Latin American and the Caribbean and the IFLA Latin America and Caribbean Section. The Mexican Library Association and the National College of Librarians of Mexico also participated in organization of the meeting.

Estela Morales Campos of the UNAM Humanities Coordination Office presented the keynote address titled: Open access to information: A right or an aspiration? The paper alludes to the Mexican legal framework underpinning the right to information access. The Director of UNAM Libraries, Adolfo Rodríguez Gallardo, read his paper titled Digital resources as a means of social inclusion, dealing with the digital divide and the way that technological infrastructure can facilitate search and retrieval of full text documents, especially in libraries. The Director of the Brazilian Institute of Technology and Information Science, Emir José Suaiden, presented a paper titled: The knowledge society in Latin America: utopia or reality?, which deals with the transition from industrial to the information society and the effects of globalization on connectivity by means of societal networks.

The papers presented in the IFLA Presidential Meeting dealt with the following subject matter:

1. Information and Society. Buhle Mbambo-Thata of South Africa spoke about access and conservation of digital information in diverse African institutions, while Sergio Lopez Ruelas of Mexico spoke about the Latin American documentary heritage that makes up part of the UNESCO World Memory Program.
2. Libraries in the digital age. IFLA President-elect Sinikka Sipilä read her paper titled: Strong libraries, strong societies, in which she discusses the impact of libraries in society. Inga Lundén touched on the principles that must be considered when acquiring and lending in order to comply with the democratic mandate favoring open access to information and e-books. Doris Samanez Alzamora presented the Seeds of Development Program, promoted by the Public Library System of Peru with the support of public and private local sectors. Monica Aspe Bernal of Mexico referred to wide-band connectivity in public spaces as a technological tool allowing access to information digital.
3. Access to information and copyright. Victoria Owen discussed copyright implications with regard to information access favored by many information handling agencies. She also mentioned achievements of the IFLA Copyright and Legal Matters Committee for establishing copyright exemptions on orphaned works in some first world countries. In other matters, Luis Villaroel focused on the inherent contradictions that arise between commercial rights of works and the way in which new knowledge is created. Finally, Adriana Berruenco of the UNAM Law Research Institute spoke about rules governing moral and economic rights to works under Mexican law.
4. Information for Libraries of the future. Loida Garcia Febo discussed information access as a fundamental element for satisfying the needs of everyone. General Director of UNAM Institutional Evaluation, Imanol Ordorika, cited the commitment of public universities with regard to provide access to digital information. Likewise, Felipe Bracho, General Director of UNAM Computer, Information and Communications Technology, pointed out that access to digital information is a key part of UNAM's academic policy. Ismail Abdullahi from North Carolina Central University cited the invaluable participation of diverse agencies in Library and Information Science Education, such as teachers, students, businessmen, professional associations and private individuals.

Approximately 200 people were in attendance from many Latin American countries, including Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, El Salvador, Mexico, Panama, Peru and Puerto Rico. There was one person from South Korea in attendance as well. Speakers hailed from institutions of the following countries: Brazil, Canada, Chile, Finland, Mexico, Peru, South Africa, Sweden and the United States of America. The event enjoyed the presence of IFLA President Ingrid Parent; IFLA President-elect for 2013-2015 Sinikka Sipilä; IFLA General Secretary Jennifer Nicholson, and IFLA Promotion Director Stuart Hamilton. Several members of the IFLA Board of Directors were also in attendance, including Donna Scheeder, Frédéric Blin, Inga Lundén, Christine Mackenzie, Buhle Mbambo-Thata and Lynne M. Rudasill. The members of the IFLA Standing Committee for the Latin America and Caribbean Section were also present.

The meeting was a success for contributing to Library and Information Science development, particularly in Latin America and the Caribbean.

IFLA Trends Report

On March 4 and 5, 2013, in conjunction with the National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM), IFLA organized a high-level meeting in Mexico City in order to draft the IFLA Trends Report. Ten experts from eight countries were invited to discuss the trends that will affect society in the coming ten years, with a special focus on the effects on the informational activities and duties of libraries.

The experts presented documents in the meeting in order to set the meeting agenda. The works presented, in conjunction with a review of the literature and the drafting of documents, make up a part of the first draft of the IFLA Trends Report to be pre-

The purpose of the Trends Report is to spur discussion and debate amongst the international library science community with regard to how libraries might adapt in order to attend to the needs of users in a changing world.

Over the next two months, additional experts shall be invited to make observations on the draft. The conclusions of these expert observations shall be included in the final draft of the Trends Report. The report shall be uploaded to the platform and available to all IFLA members. IFLA President Ingrid Parent, President-elect Sinikka Sipilä and other members of the IFLA Board of Governors participated in the debates. Parent closed the debate saying: "I am pleased with the two days of debate held in Mexico City. The depth of the discussions was very inspir-sented in the 2013 Singapore World Library and Information Science Congress in August. The topics to be discussed include copyright and the market, public goods, the online culture, empowerment, security and political culture, and identity and locality.

ing and the results will be very valuable in the drafting of a fine trends report."

The following experts were invited to the rounds of discussion and debate:

- Dr. MJ Olivier Crepin-Leblond, President of the Internet Corporation for the Assignment of names and Internet Numbers (ICANN).

- Anriette Esterhuysen, Executive Director of the Communications Progress Association (APC)
- Divina Frau-Meigs, Professor of American Studies and the Sociology of Communications Media of the University Paris 3-Sorbone
- John Houghton, visiting Professor of the Center for Strategic Studies of the University of Victoria (CSES)
- Deborah Jacobs, Director Global Libraries Development Program of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation
- Marieme Jamme, CEO Spotone Global Solutions
- Fred von Lohmann, Director of Copyright Matters of Google
- Alejandro Pisanty, Chemistry professor of the National Autonomous University of Mexico
- Suneet Singh Tuli, founder and CEO of DataWind Ltd.
- Louis Zacharilla, Co-Founder of the Global Forum of the Intelligent Community

IFLA Spanish-language website

IFLA launched the Spanish-language version of its website on February 25, 2013. Many policies, directives and other IFLA documents have been made available in the seven official IFLA languages and for some time in other languages. The launch of the Spanish-language web site offers broader access to existing and recently translated materials in languages other than English. A broad selection of key IFLA documents, policies and directives has been translated into Spanish. At a later date, additional IFLA documents shall be translated into other official IFLA languages. These contents were first made available in Spanish and in short order they shall be translated into French.

Because IFLA is a global organization, it is faced with many, significant cultural differences from region to region, not the least of which is language barrier. One of IFLA's key initiatives is to offer a website in as many languages as possible in order to bridge language barrier and enhance overall work productivity. IFLA currently is collaborating with a network of language centers and volunteers around the world to execute translations of content and promote the creation of content among communities that use the same language.

This is an excellent result, and in the name of the Governing Board, President Ingrid Parent thanked the members of the work group and IFLA personnel for their work in executing the Spanish-language translation.

Development of the IFLA Repository

IFLA signed a contract with ECS Partners Limited for the construction of its new repository. The existing documents in the digital archive shall be published from 2013 forward. These documents include papers read at the 2012 World Library and Information Congress (WLIC), existing IFLA standards, Section bulletins and a selection of promotional documents. In time, open access complete text resources and links to other IFLA resources shall be uploaded and new content shall be developed.

Pursuant to the IFLA Key Initiative number 1 focused on digital contents, the selection of E-Prints Services was based on a study carried out by a work group of the IFLA Board of Governors led by Genevieve Clavel-Merrin. Diverse options were explored and it was concluded that E-Prints was the best fit for the needs defined by IFLA. The recommendation was approved by the IFLA Board of Governors in December 2012.

The personnel of IFLA HQ are working with personnel of E-Prints Services to build the archive and upload initial contents. We expect public access to the digital platform to be announced in the 2013 Singapore World Library and Information Congress. Over the next few years professional units are expected to help in the development of content as their resources are included.

As soon as information on the archive is available and links are made known to the IFLA Standing Committees, professional units and other parties interested in its development, additional news on the development of the archive shall be published on the IFLA website and on a dedicated web page.

IFLA World Library and Information Congress at Singapore

The 79th World Library and Information Congress will be held in August 2012 in the Suntec Singapore International Convention & Exhibition Centre, which can host between 10 and 20 thousand people. The Congress shall be held from August 17 to 23, 2013. The opening ceremony and the exhibitors reception shall be held on August 18.

The opening ceremony, official closing and several selected sessions of the Congress shall offer simultaneous translation in the seven official IFLA languages, i.e., German, Arabic, Mandarin Chinese, Spanish, French, English and Russian.

News relating to the Congress shall be disseminated by means of the IFLA-L email list, a pre-Congress Bulletin, social networking media and a website to be developed for this purpose.

Action for Development through Libraries Programme (ALP)

The Action for Development through Libraries Committee has endorsed a work strategy for the coming three years. The plan shall focus on three areas. ALP's objective is to strengthen the ability of the library and information sector to advocate for equitable access to information and resilient, sustainable library communities. We will achieve this through the following strands of IFLA ALP:

- Building the capacity of national and regional library associations (BSLA)
- Developing leaders who can effectively represent the wider library sector in the international arena, and within IFLA (IFLA International Leaders programme)
- Evaluating the impact of our work and turning outcomes into policy, guidelines and standards for further development of the LIS sector (Advancing the Professional Agenda)

Fiona Bradley

Building Strong Library Associations programme (BSLA)

The ALP Committee has approved a strategy to carry forward the BSLA programme. The programme shall be based on the success of the initial country projects, and includes a mix of new country projects, regional activities and events by:

- The ALP Committee has approved a strategy to carry forward the BSLA programme. The programme shall be based on the success of the initial country projects, and includes a mix of new country projects, regional activities and events by:
- Implementing projects in collaboration with regional library associations, to cascade to their member associations;

- Identifying funding or advocacy opportunities for BSLA;
- Identifying trainers from the initial country projects, who will now be trained to deliver projects in other countries;
- Identifying opportunities for networking and experiences sharing, eg at the IFLA World Library and Information Congress, regional conferences and through BSLA convenings;
- Organising workshops, training and other activities to build on activities in the regions;
- Strengthening links with the IFLA International Leaders Programme.

Fiona Bradley

IFLA International Leaders Programme

Associates are continuing work in their project groups, on topics including Access to Digital Content, Regional Collaboration, and Libraries and Development. The Open Access and regional collaboration groups have completed surveys of colleagues in the regions. The Associates will meet at the IFLA Congress in Singapore this August, with a full programme of sessions and participation in the main congress programme planned.

The social sciences have made fundamental contributions to the understanding of social, political and economic life of nations over the last century. Libraries specialized in the Social Sciences now play key roles in the context of the information society as sources of academic and social information. This work provides information about the development and use of digital resources in the field of Social Science while stressing the best practices, an overview of current obstacles to providing these resources and a look at the use of these resources in matters associated with sustainable development.

What are the essential competencies required to work as a librarian for heritage collections and how can these competencies be acquired?

The administration of antique and heritage collections requires a unique mix of knowledge, skills and abilities, including experience in conservation and acquisition policies, bibliography description, materials used in books and other objects in the collection, library history and the particular collection itself. Librarians in this field also need to understand the need for open access, the important role of marketing and the challenges arising from digitizing collections.

REGIONAL NEWS

Mid-term meeting of the IFLA Latin American and Caribbean Standing Committee

The IFLA/LAC Standing Committee generally meets every March in order to discuss matters concerning the Section and to promote activities and projects underway in the region.

On this occasion, the meeting was held on March 8, which was a briefer session than had been the custom, because committee members also participated in the Presidential Meeting held March 6 and 7. The host for both events was the National Autonomous University of Mexico.

In the meeting, the Manager of the IFLA

Regional Office and President of the Standing Committee presented their respective activities reports. At the meeting it were approached the activities involving members, such as caucuses, sessions, awards and other matters associated with the 79th IFLA General Conference and Assembly in Singapore.

Currently, the Regional Office and the Latin America and Caribbean Section have begun participating in an important project called Multilinguism, which shall endeavor to have practically all IFLA documents available in Spanish on the IFLA website.

At this mid-term meeting the papers to be presented and the Section's program for the 2013 Congress at Singapore were assessed.

The committee members were committed with many activities, most notably the special one to collaborate with in the Multilingualism project and the endeavor to inform government authorities of Latin American countries about the importance of opening some copyright exceptions to the benefit of libraries. Moreover, Committee members were urged to work on creating a publications program for the Section, an effort that shall be launched in 2014, with a commemorative edition marking the 40th year of IFLA/LAC.

Workshop on “Libraries in the digital world”

The UNAM Institute of Research on Library and Information Science (IIBI) working in conjunction with the General Sub-Direction for Library Coordination of the Spanish Ministry of Education, Culture and Sports and the University of Costa Rica extend an invitation to the workshop on “Libraries in the digital world” to was held June 24 through 28, 2013, in the IIBI facilities at University City in Mexico City.

From this workshop, coordinated by the Regional Office and the Section for Latin America and the Caribbean (IFLA/LAC). Part of the programme contemplates workshops on the application of digital tools for developing library services. These initial workshops are offered consecutively in diverse locations in Ibero-America. A second phase of training entails implementation of learning in respective libraries of workshop trainees.

Sixteen participants attended the workshop, twelve were Mexicans and four were Costa Ricans. The Mexican attendees work in the following institutions: El Colegio de la Frontera Sur, CONACULTA and the UNAM. The Costa Rican attendees came from Universidad Nacional, Universidad Estatal a Distancia and the National Library System SINABI.

ARGENTINA 45th National Librarians Meeting

The 45th Librarians National Meeting was held on April 23-25 in the Rural, Predio Ferial of Buenos Aires. The event allowed those in attendance to share and learn about new experiences in the professional field in Argentina. This national meeting also hosted several professional conferences and specialty workshops, including the 19th Meeting of School Libraries; the 18th Agricultural, Veterinary, Forestry and Fishing Libraries Sessions; 17th University Library Meeting; 13th Law and Legal Science Libraries Sessions; 7th Science and Technology Libraries Session; 5th RECIARA Meeting, and the 1st Argentine Library and Information Science Schools Meeting of Teachers and Students.

The overarching theme of the meeting was “Librarians and libraries: duties and commitment.” This theme was approached through the following sub-themes:

1. Information access
2. Social commitment of librarians
3. Library Science education
4. Professional associations.

6th Jujuy Library Science Sessions

Under the banner Users in the 20th Century: How to meet their demands; the 6th Jujuy Library Science sessions were held in the Monsignor Vergara Library of Higher Education Institute No. 7 Populorum Progressio-In. Te.La. from May 16 to 18, 2013. The purpose of these sessions is to help librarians and libraries of Jujuy keep abreast of new technology in order to meet the demands of library users.

BRAZIL 25th Brazilian Congress of Librarianship, Documentation and Information Science

The Brazilian Federation of Associations of Librarians, Scientists of the Information and Institutions (FE-BAB) and the Catarinense Association of Librarians (ACB) are proud to extend their invitations to the 25th Brazilian Congress of Librarianship, Documentation and Information Science to be held in Florianópolis, July 7 to 10, 2013.

The overarching theme of the Congress is: Libraries, Information and Users: Transformation approach for the Librarianship and Information Science. Through an intensive and up to date schedule of activities, the Congress hopes to afford participants opportunities to analyze and reflect on scientific and technological advances in the field and their impact on professional practice, the sustainability of libraries and other informational centers.

Over the course of four days, these goals shall be approached in round tables, conferences, technical meetings, simultaneous events, thematic forums and presentations. Organizers aim to create an atmosphere for dialogue and fertile ground for learning and construction of knowledge, where new, enlightened ideas can bloom.

In Florianópolis, the Magic Island and in the State of Santa Catarina We are waiting for you with open arms in 2013.

Mark it down in your calendar. We will be very happy to be your host!

COLOMBIA International Book Fair of Bogota FILBO 2013

Held in Corferias, the 26th FILBO 2013 Book Fair of Bogota – Ecopetrol officially concluded after a successful run of two weeks, during which time innumerable colorfully uniformed students from schools throughout Bogota toured the stands and pavilions.

This celebration reminded one and all of 1988 Nobel Prize for Literature Laureate Jose Saramago. Pilar del Rio came to Colombia to share stories that led to the creation of a foundation to pay homage to the man who touched so many hearts in the books he authored. Likewise, Jean-Marie Gustave Le Clezio, whose presence at the fair was eagerly anticipated, conversed with Colombian Oscar Collazos in what can only be described as a prose bombardment.

The fair concluded with the announcement that Peru would be the honor guest honor country in the next edition of the book fair. Organizers estimated that 433,000 book lovers attended the fair.

Study of reading habits and book consumption in Colombia

According to an agreement signed by the five agencies with the National Bureau of Statistics, the 2012 cultural consumption survey now includes a measure of Reading Habits, Book Consumption and Library Use. The survey produces several key indicators to support Colombian public policy making.

The signatory agencies are: The Ministry of Culture, the Communications and Information Technologies Fund (FONTIC), the Colombian Chamber of Books, the Foundation to Promote Reading (Fundalec-tura) and the Regional Center to Promote Reading in Latin America and the Caribbean (CERLALC).

The latest survey provides a vision of the reading habits of children between 5 to 11 years old and for persons over 12. It also provides figures for library attendance in the last three months.

11th National Reading Congress and 1st International Meeting of School Libraries

From April 23 to 25, the National Ministry of Education held its National Reading and Writing Plan under the banner: Reading is my story. Within this context, Fundalec-tura held the 11th National Reading Congress, and the 1st International School Libraries Meeting was also held. On this occasion the Ministry of Education and Fundalec-tura decided to join forces to carry off the Congress and the Meeting in a single event, in which participants were encouraged to debate and reflect on the role of school libraries in the academic life of students and youth in general. Education Minister, María Fernanda Campo Saavedra, stressed the need to consolidate a network of school libraries.

The event titled: The school library: realities and challenges sought to provide a forum for debate on the importance of creating, updating and maintaining school libraries, especially in light of the challenge of optimizing learning.

Prestigious international participants included Catalan Daniel Cassany; Chilean Constanza Mekis, National Coordinator of School Libraries; Spaniard Ines Miret, consultant in digital reading projects, books and libraries, and reading specialist in the SEP, and Günter Schlamp from Germany.

Digital Plan of the National Library of Colombia

In an event held on May 15 at 11:00 am in the Aurelio Arturo Auditorium of the National Library, the National Library Director presided his last administrative act in presenting a progress report on the Digital Plan for the National Library. Visitors enjoyed a guided tour of the Digitization and Conservation Department, where the Restrepo Historical Archive is currently being digitized in conjunction with the Universidad de los Andes. This collection is one of the most important historical archives in private hands in the country, and it will soon be made available to the general public thanks to this digitization initiative.

That same day, the National Library implemented a process for voluntary deposit of digital documents, such as websites, images, texts, videos, audio files. This service is available to anyone who wishes the library to preserve these documents in the digital collection for the benefit of future generation.

Colloquium “Reading as a vehicle for learning” in the Faculty of Philosophy and Letters of the Universidad Nacional

In commemoration of the World Book Day, April 23, the Library of the Faculty of Philosophy and Letters hosted Costa Rican writer Anny Brenes, whose charisma and unique presentation was a delight to all.

On this occasion, Brenes spoke on the topic of Reading as a vehicle to learning, narrating the experiences of people riding on the bus. Soon she had turned this everyday anecdote into a story rich with interesting details.

She engaged the audience with the question: What is reading?

Moreover, she stressed the benefits of reading and the key role it plays in learning across the curriculum. She pointed out that reading is also important in daily life, for example, when shopping, running errands and doing business, not to mention its role in general culture, travel and self-knowledge.

The author also noted some curiosities regarding reading, for example, how readers tend to skip words and how meaning is lost when text is presented in a digital medium on screen rather than on the printed page. To conclude the activity, Brenes read her story Dorilla, which deals with a weaving spider who sells its wares in order to feel useful to society. The moral of the story is: “We are always useful to someone, even though we sometimes doubt it.”

CUBA

Inauguration of first library-park in Cuba

The first library-park in Cuba, located in the National Library, Jose Marti, was officially inaugurated. The ceremony enjoyed the presence of the Politburo member and Havana Province Party First Secretary, Fernando Rojas; Vice-Minister of Culture, Dr. Eduardo Torres Cuevas; National Library Director, Noraima Tábares; and Mayra Lasalle, who is Vice-President of the People's National Assembly and Culture Director of the Capital Province.

Dr. Eduardo Torres Cuevas gave the opening address, explaining that the library-park is conceived as an integrated community project whose purpose is to promote reading among the Cuban people. The library-park, he added, is meant to be used for reading enjoyment and is especially focused on stimulating children and teens to learn about the joy of reading.

The ceremony included the presentation of collection Telling Havana, by Ciro Bianchi, who shared anecdotes from the book and engaged in an interesting dialogue with the Director of the National Library and the public.

The ceremony enjoyed the performances of talented young people, including guitar and violin recitals and singers, as well as stories by Tomasita Rojas, all of which lent the event a distinctive marque. Additionally, Reynerio Salerno spoke about the new edition of the Diary of Ann Frank and the event concluded with a performance of the Fantasy Puppets by the Carnavaleando Troop.

Finally, children and teens joined in the fun as the inauguration event wound to an end.

Cuban readers now enjoy a new space for reading, and every last Saturday of the month they can enjoy many activities for children, teens and adults.

1st Strategic Plan of the Librarian Cooperation Board (CCB) of Spain

On February 14, the Librarian Cooperation Board, presided by the Minister of Culture Jose Maria Lassalle, approved its 1st Strategic Plan, which defines the strategic lines of action for the three-year period 2013-2015.

Founded in 2007, the Librarian Cooperation Board is the inter-administrative agency that serves as a conduit for cooperation between school, university, national and regional, public and specialized libraries across Spain.

All the members of the several agencies making up the Board have contributed to the drafting of the plan, which also received input from external library science experts. The plan is underpinned by a methodology that involves diverse participative information gathering techniques.

The approved draft of the plan advances three strategic lines of work:

1. Promotion and development of libraries within Spanish society
2. Sustainability of library services in the emerging social and informational context

3. Development of CCB functions.

Launch of an e-book lending service in Spanish public libraries

The interest of the Spanish Ministry of Education, Culture and Sports in promoting citizen's access to quality library services throughout the nation has led to the implementation of e-book lending services in public libraries. This initiative is contemplated in the General Strategic Plan for 2013-2015 of the Ministry Education, Culture and Sports. The publication of contents in electronic format targeted for the general reading public is undergoing rapid development. As such, public libraries need to keep abreast of and serve the new demands created by an evolving society. From this standpoint, Spanish public libraries, with more than 5,000 facilities serving 13.5 million registered users, have the capacity to serve broad sectors of society. The establishment of e-book lending services in public libraries offers the possibility of satisfying the public's demand for cultural materials, while underpinning legal access to these contents. The service also promises to extend the reach of public libraries to new, otherwise under-served sectors of society.

This nation-wide service is slated for launch in late 2013 or early 2014 in most public libraries. Moreover, it promises to be motor for modernization of public libraries and the e-book market in Spain. The Spanish Ministry of Education, Culture and Sports is currently negotiating a contract for a single e-book lending management system. Local libraries shall nonetheless be able to customize the system to fit local requirements. As per subject matter and target public, the Ministry is also procuring licenses for the basic collections of e-books available in each network. Local communities and autonomous cites shall be the managers of these networks, carrying out daily operations, meaning they will be able to incorporate local contents and acquisitions. With an investment of around two million euros, the project promises to spur dialogue among librarians, editors and distributors with regard to the commercial conditions and models to be implemented in e-book lending libraries.

“Iberbibliotecas” Programme

The “Iberbibliotecas” Programme, whose restructuring was approved at the Heads of States and Governments Summit in Asuncion, has new operational regulations and it has just published its first call for projects associated with the following action lines:

1. Project for the development, strengthening and modernization and/or evaluation of regional networks and public libraries.
2. Support for public library initiatives, especially for libraries located in vulnerable or isolated areas and which are supported by the municipality or other local entity.

3. Support for research proposals on libraries and their impact on the development of communities with joint support provided by universities and other research centers.
4. Development of ongoing training programs for public library personnel and forums for exchange of experiences and knowledge among head librarians and other library professionals.
5. Support for cooperative projects for public libraries that tend to promote circulation of knowledge and regional cultural production.
6. Support for reading promotion programmes offered in public libraries.
7. Support for library services and projects that promote local development and community participation.

The “Iberbibliotecas” programme’s purpose is to establish a synergetic Ibero-American public library cooperation network that maximizes resources on a single platform for the benefit of all member countries.

In this new phase over the next two years, the presidency shall be handed to Colombia and the technical secretariat shall be held by the Latin America and the Caribbean Regional Center for Book Promotion (CERLALC).
