Farewell letter

After serving for twenty-two as the Head of the Regional Office, I know I have fulfilled my duty. Those early years, when IFLA was largely unknown in the region, seem hard to believe, and are now enveloped in a fog of oblivion when compared to the state of things now. With the invaluable collaboration and efforts of the Standing Committee members of the Latin American and Caribbean Section and other IFLA divisions, especially ALP, we have always endeavored to implement the Strategic Plan and immediate objectives posited by the various presidents of the Federation. We bring reading, books, knowledge and professionalism to the far reaches of the region, serving street children, indigenous peoples, the poor and our colleagues who work under conditions of tight or non-existent budgets. Today, there are few professional librarians who have not heard of IFLA and the fruit of our labors is evident in many countries of the region. As such, now that I say farewell to my colleagues and friends in this marvelous universe that is the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions, I would like to express my deep gratitude to all of the librarians and information professionals around the world with whom I was privileged to work. I would especially like to thank:

• The IFLA Presidents, Secretaries and the HQ team, with whom I worked from 1990 to 2011, for the trust they invested in my work;

• The previous and current Heads of the Regional Offices in Africa, Asia and Oceania, and the Presidents of the Regional Activities Division, for your friendship, cooperation and companionship;

• The Brazilian institutions: Federação Brasileira de Associações de Bibliotecários, Cientistas da Informação e Instituições oFEBABó; The State of Sao Paulo Printing Press; the National Library, Ministry of Culture, Rio de Janeiro State Public Library; and Regional Council on Library Science oCRB 76 Rio de Janeiro, for the support given to IFLA as the Regional Office in Latin America and the Caribbean.

• The secretaries of the Regional Office, Ivone Tálamo (1990-2000) and Marly Soler (2001-2011), whose invaluable collaboration and advise were always available when I needed it. Without them, I could never have served for so long in this post;

• Kátia Pereira de Oliveira, who headed the Clearinghouse, for her professionalism and loyalty over all these years;

• My dear friend and advisor in the Regional Office, Stella Maris Fernández, an expert librarian from Argentina, graced with broad culture, who was always willing to help with translations from Portuguese to Spanish. She have my eternal gratitude;

• The Latin American and Caribbean institutions, especially those in Brazil, which gave support to the Office and Section when we staged events in their respective countries or states. Without their help, we never would have had the success in carrying out these regional meetings and projects.

• My friends in Brazil, May Brooking Negrão, Miriam Salvatore Nascimento, María Isabel Franca, Elisete Melo and Ana Ligia Madeiros, for all their help and efforts;

• My old colleagues and friends in IFLA, for the lessons received, steady orientation and professionalism, as well as for their tolerance with my impatience; moreover, for their genuine affection;

• My contemporaries, for their companionship, fraternal spirit, trust, good fellowship, professionalism and devotion. Let me reiterate my admiration and friendship;

• To the new generation, for its loyalty, rectitude and enthusiasm, as well as its good advise, cordiality and friendship;

• My family, especially my husband Mario, for your unwavering support for my professional life and our children, Teresa, Cristina and Mario. Their love has been with me always, especially when I was far away attending IFLA duties. I also thank my sister Elba for her companionship throughout this journey;
Finally, I would especially like to thank the former presidents and secretaries, as well as the current Section President, Felipe Martinez, and the former and current members of the Standing Committee of the Latin America and Caribbean Section for their professionalism and dedication. They all have my eternal admiration and friendship. I have no words to express the gratitude I feel for the advisory group. Many of our goals would never have been achieved without their help, as well as the exemplary coordination between the Section and the Office. The unselfish spirit and professionalism of this group are beyond words. The best I can say about them is: With your help I would be glad to do it all over again in the knowledge that we could never fail.

Dear colleagues and friends, as I leave my post as Head of the Regional Office, I wish to reiterate that, while sharing innumerable achievements, we lived moments of tension and joy, but there was always a spirit of cooperation and our ideals to carry us through and beyond hurt feelings and personal ambition. I now walk away from my post with a feeling of accomplishment, satisfaction in the duties fulfilled and confidence that my stewardship will speak for itself.

To the incoming Regional Office Manager, I wish him/her all success! I am sure he/she will be a fine representative for IFLA in the region.

Elizabet Maria Ramos de Carvalho

IFLA Presidential Meeting 2011

Since 2007, IFLA has organized a series of Presidential Meetings linked to the IFLA Presidential theme. This year, under the theme "Libraries driving access to knowledge: Action for Europe," the IFLA Presidential Meeting 2011 took place on 14 & 15 April 2011 in the Koninklijke Bibliotheek.

The conference was organized by IFLA in close cooperation with FOBID Netherlands Library Forum. The conference programme, with an excellent range of speakers and with interesting and topical panel discussions, provided a great platform for the promotion and discussion of three strategic topics: Access to Information as a Human Right; Copyright and Libraries; and Open Access and the Changing Role of Libraries.

During the meeting, two key IFLA documents were launched: the IFLA Statement on Open Access and a Draft Treaty on Copyright Exceptions and Limitations for Libraries and Archives.

With 185 delegates from 34 countries (22 delegates from outside of Europe) the meeting was fully subscribed. A new feature was the participation of students in interviewing speakers and delegates on specific topics and giving presentations to the President and Board Members after the meeting. The IFLA Presidential Meeting 2011 was a good opportunity for European library organizations and institutions to discuss these issues with European Parliament and Commission representatives and get a better understanding of the advocacy needs for the library sector in Europe. It was very pleased to hear that IFLA President-elect Ingrid Parent plans to continue the IFLA Presidential Meeting series under her presidency.

IFLA Statement on open access — clarifying IFLA’s position and strategy (i)

The International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA) is committed to the principles of freedom of access to information and the belief that universal and equitable access to information is vital for the social, educational, cultural, democratic, and economic well-being of people, communities, and organizations.

Open access is the now known name for a concept, a movement and a business model whose goal is to provide free access and re-use of scientific knowledge in the form of research articles, monographs, data and related materials. Open access does this by shifting today's prevalent business models of after-publication payment by subscribers to a funding model that does not charge readers or their institutions for access. Thus, open access is an essential issue within IFLA’s information agenda.
Definition of open access
As an initial action, IFLA has signed the Berlin Declaration on Open Access to Knowledge in the Sciences and Humanities. IFLA adheres to the definition of open access used in the Berlin Declaration and will use it in public communication and contacts with various organizations (ii).

A clear focus on the access issue
IFLA acknowledges that there are a number of worthwhile objectives, besides open access, concerning the development of the system of scientific and scholarly communication, such as

- implementing a rigorous system for the control of scientific quality;
- providing long-term preservation of research information;
- safeguarding freedom from censorship;
- offering efficient and user-friendly services;
- fostering activities that support “information literacy”;
- expanding bandwidth and other essential infrastructure that underlies robust access to information.

There is a positive synergy between promoting open access and pursuing these other essential objectives, and IFLA supports a number of activities related to them; however, they are not identical to open access as herein defined, and neither requires the other. IFLA will promote open access with a clear focus on the access issue.

The current model does not guarantee access and is not sustainable
As the rate and amount of research publication in various forms is rapidly expanding, the current predominant scholarly communication model—via scholarly journals subscriptions—is hardly sustainable and not working effectively in the interests of the global community. Scholarly journals are subject to rapid price escalations and there are no clear and consistent correlations between price, quality and impact. Even the most well endowed research library cannot afford to purchase all of the content requested by its faculty and students.

The situation is even more critical for smaller college and universities and largely unacceptable for institutions in the developing world, with severely limited or no budgets. Existing development initiatives to some extent compensate for the lack of access to crucial information, but these initiatives are dependent on publisher decisions, which are made unilaterally.

There is growing dissatisfaction among major players. Authors are concerned because their work is not seen by all their peers, they may not get the global recognition they seek, and often they continue, even unnecessarily, to transfer copyright, which limits the use and reuse of their own works. Readers cannot access all the scholarly literature they need, and thus their research activities can be less effective. Society as a whole suffers from inefficient communication channels that prevent innovations and development. The widespread sharing of research results is an essential component of government investment in science. Faster and wider sharing of knowledge fuels the advancement of science and, accordingly, the return of health, economic, and social benefits back to the public. Not surprisingly, librarians have been amongst the most vocal advocates for open access.

The benefits of open access
There are significant gains to making research and research results available without financial, legal and technical barriers to access. Researchers benefit from increased visibility, usage and impact for their work. Open access helps to publicise institutions’ research strengths. For publishers, open access brings maximum visibility, increased readership and impact for the contents; it means that a greatly improved dissemination service is being provided for research. Open access enhances the flow of knowledge between North and South and also between South and South.

Open access and the changing role of libraries
Libraries play an essential role in open access developments by their expertise in building infrastructure, in creating user-friendly services of high quality and in securing long-term access. Librarians have shown their support for open access by signing open access initiatives and petitions. They have educated faculty and administrators about evolving scholarly communication environment. Libraries have partnered with faculty and research managers to set up open access repositories and to help faculty and students deposit their research outputs. Librarians have provided support in research data curation and sharing. They have helped scholarly publishers to publish open access journals and books, and they have worked with educators to produce open educational resources ensuring the quality of digital content, its reuse and sharing. Open access has thus changed the profile of academic and research libraries. National libraries are involved in developing national open access policies and supporting national research infrastructures and open access to cultural heritage. Public libraries disseminate open access content targeted for their users. And, according to the IFLA World Report 2010, the vast majority of library associations support open access.

Promoting open access in cooperating with international organizations
IFLA will work with global organizations and fora such as UN, UNESCO, WHO, WIPO, WSIS and others in promoting and advocating open access to publicly funded research, educational resources and cultural heritage. In its contacts and cooperation with these organizations, IFLA will explicitly state that open access in its authoritative meaning is required for the progress of science, the development of society and true citizenship. Open access will provide users with the access they desire and enable libraries to maximize their role, thus improving global health and human well-being.

Connecting to the open access movement
Open access to research, educational resources and research data is now a global movement. Many organizations are working towards this goal. IFLA will connect to these organizations, not duplicating effort, but rather creating synergy.

IFLA will establish partnerships with and provide support to organizations, programmes, initiatives and services that are promoting open access, such as SPARC (US/Europe/Japan), COAR, OASPA, Bioline International & DOAJ, among others.

IFLA will prepare joint statements with these organizations.

Working with the IFLA membership
Open access is a central pillar of IFLA’s Strategic Plan 2010-2015 in which a whole-of-organisation approach is taken to integrating the issue into IFLA’s current and proposed activities.

IFLA will advise its member associations in regard to:
- stimulating library members to promote open access in their communities and to implement measures to enlarge the impact of open access;
- enriching the local and national information infrastructure in order to stimulate open access;
- assistance in the work for national policies regarding open access to knowledge, as well as to publicly funded research and cultural heritage;
- supporting organizations, programmes, initiatives and services that are working for the promotion of open access.

Together with partners as SPARC, EIFL and LIBER, IFLA will also provide its member associations with advocacy material and practical guidelines in line with the recommendations.

IFLA’s publications will be open access IFLA will develop a transition plan that specifies the steps to be taken to transform IFLA’s publications into open access.

Endorsed by IFLA Governing Board, 18 April 2011

i. A resolution to the IFLA General Assembly on August 14, 2010, called on IFLA to clarify its position on open access and to develop a strategy for action. This task was commissioned to the President’s Working Group for Open Access by the Professional Board.

ii. “Definition of an Open Access Contribution” Establishing open access as a worthwhile procedure ideally requires the active commitment of each and every individual producer of scientific knowledge and holder of cultural heritage. Open access contributions include original scientific research results, raw data and metadata, source materials, digital representations of pictorial and graphical materials and scholarly multimedia material.

Open access contributions must satisfy two conditions:

1. The author(s) and right holder(s) of such contributions grant(s) to all users a free, irrevocable, worldwide, right of access to, and a license to copy, use, distribute, transmit and display the work publicly and to make and distribute derivative works, in any digital medium for any responsible purpose, subject to proper attribution of authorship (community standards, will continue to provide the mechanism for enforcement of proper attribution and responsible use of the published work, as they do now), as well as the right to make small numbers of printed copies for their personal use.

2. A complete version of the work and all supplemental materials, including a copy of the permission as stated above, in an appropriate standard electronic format is deposited (and thus published) in at least one online repository using suitable technical standards (such as the Open Archive definitions) that is supported and maintained by an academic institution, scholarly society, government agency, or other well-established organization that seeks to enable open access, unrestricted distribution, inter operability, and long-term archiving.”

Building Strong Library Associations Activities

Regional trainers’ workshops
Two regional workshops to train new trainers for the Building Strong Library Associations programme will be held in Puerto Rico and Panama from August 10-12, 2011.
Organized in cooperation with the National Library of Puerto Rico and the Universidad de Panama, respectively, the two Workshops will bring together new trainers representing library associations from 14 countries in the Caribbean, Central and South America.

The workshop consists of the train-the-trainers module which builds skills in facilitation, training small groups, planning and evaluating training, and BSLA content. After completing the three day workshop, the new trainers are accredited to deliver presentations or train others in their own library community or within their region. The module is flexible, and can be adapted to accredit trainers in any of IFLA’s training packages, including those developed by FAIFE. The module can also be delivered as part of other train-the-trainer activities, such as ALP small projects.

BSLA Country Project in Peru
Two workshops have been held, focusing on partnerships and association structure. More information about the Colegio de Bibliotecólogos del Peru goals can be found on the IFLA website:

Outcomes from the first activities include an increase in competition for election to the associationsí presidency in Peru.

The race involved two candidates with very active campaigns, including TV interviews and distributing a great amount of materials to promote voting.

The number of voters exceeded expectations, 45% of member’s participated.

IFLA Online Learning Platform
All BSLA modules are now available to members via the IFLA Online Learning Platform. Translations of materials are also being added as they become available, including materials in Arabic, Spanish, and French. Several modules are already available to all IFLA members in Spanish. For more information and to register to access the platform

BSLA 2011 Country project
A very strong number of applications was received from the region for the BSLA country project for 2011. The level of interest and high quality of applications from LAC is excellent. The country will be announced at the IFLA Congress in Puerto Rico.

ALP 2011 Small Project Workshop on Internet Manifesto, organized by the National Librarians Association of Uruguay.

The objectives are:
Provide Internet training for information professionals Building new services to contribute in order to bridge the digital divide
Promote the exchange of experiences within the region and in particular with IFLA in order to strengthen relations between professionals of the region Provide a full project narrative report including statement of impact and full financial report to IFLA after the completion of the project.

The project consists of the following:
A workshop about the IFLA Internet Manifesto will take place in Montevideo (Uruguay). This workshop will consist of 20 national information professionals as participants and an IFLA facilitator. The workshop will follow a train-the-trainer model. A final report and an evaluation after six months from the event will be provided by the ABU. In this evaluation, participants will follow a train-the-trainer model. A final report and an evaluation after six months from the event will be provided by the ABU. In this evaluation, participants will be asked to provide details about the training activities they have planned and delivered since the initial workshop in their region. Usage statistics of the new services created will be presented.

Call for ALP small project applications for 2012
The IFLA Action for Development through Libraries Programmed (IFLA ALP) has announced the call for project applications for 2012. IFLA ALP offers financial or other assistance for projects within ALP’s main areas of focus based on IFLA learning materials or local needs.

What projects are supported?
IFLA ALP supports small projects (up to 7000 Euro per project) to deliver workshops, seminars and other activities. Workshops based on IFLA’s learning materials or train-the-trainer activities are encouraged. Collaborative projects with other funding bodies are also encouraged.

Who is eligible to apply?
Library associations, groups of libraries or consortia, and other organizations located in countries within IFLA’s regional sections in Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean, Asia and Oceania; or developing and emerging countries, are eligible to apply. Application guidelines can be found in full on the IFLA website together with application forms. Applicants are strongly encouraged to contact ALP and the relevant Regional Office before the deadline to discuss their proposal. For more information, visit the IFLA ALP pages on the IFLA website.

Applications should be submitted by 15 September 2011.

Award for previous ALP small project
El Casero Libro of the Library of the Municipality of Santiago de Surco (Lima, Peru), won the second prize in the 2010 competition VivaLectura organized by the National Education Council. The National Education Council (CNE), the Fundación BBVA Banco Continental and Grupo Santillana awarded the winners of the first VivaLectura 2010 prize. The prizes recognize promotion of reading in Peru, in an effort to motivate institutions, schools and society in general to participate in reading activities. The VivaLectura contest has previously been awarded in Brazil and Argentina. Peru joins group of countries making this award.

The jury, composed of prestigious personalities such as Sinesio Lopez, Rafo Leon and Luis Jaime Cisneros, was charged with the difficult task of selecting the winners in the categories of experience institutional or individual, educational institutions and libraries; from rural and marginal urban areas Puno, Junin and Lima. Second prize in the Public Library category was awarded to the El Casero del Libro Project, an initiative of the Municipality of Santiago de Surco (Lima), which takes the library beyond the physical space to bring books to market vendors of that district, who spend about eight hours in their stalls.

The project began in 2009 with support from IFLA ALP. The award ceremony took place on Tuesday 7 December in the BBVA auditorium and was attended by representatives of finalist from all over the country, and leading personalities.

Retirement of Sjoerd Koopman from IFLA Headquarters staff
Sjoerd Koopman, IFLA Professional Programmes Director, will retire on 1 August 2011. I have accepted Sjoerd’s resignation reluctantly but with full understanding of this wish to retire now and move on to the next stage of his life pursuing and enjoying different interests.

Sjoerd has been a mainstay of the IFLA Headquarters staff over the last 13 years, a time that has seen IFLA grow and go through many changes. Sjoerd has always willingly taken on the challenges presented by this, and throughout has provided valuable support to the Governing Board, Professional Committee, professional units, members, our corporate and other partners, and staff. Like many of us, I have had the pleasure of knowing him for many years, through working with him as a staff member here in HQ, and as the always willing and responsive HQ contact person for matters relating to Sections I have served on, and at IFLA congresses where though extremely busy he was always available with a smile and good humour. Sjoerd’s commitment to IFLA goes beyond that of a staff member; IFLA has been the beneficiary of Sjoerd’s great passion for our profession and the role IFLA can play in it.
Governing Board members and staff wish Sjoerd well in his retirement. We will miss him, his knowledge and expertise, and his kind and generous nature. We will though still keep finding postcards of libraries for him for his postcard collection!

Over the next few weeks Sjoerd will be in contact with his many friends and colleagues about the news of his retirement.

If you would like to respond to Stoerd about this email he asks that you please reply directly to him sjoerd.koopman@ifla.org instead of through IFLA-L.

“Airs of Good Books”: 21st Children and Youth Book Fair

“Words waft and they build cities in the air populated by eager readers: seekers of stories, laughter, knowledge, experience and traditions.”

Held from July 11th to 30th, 2011, the Children and Youth Book Fair, an event focusing on reading for children and youth provided the ideal setting for communicating genuine values within an environment of joy, fun and entertainment.

Children and youth participated in numerous fair events in the rooms and stands that offered story tellers sessions, magic shows, puppets and musical presentations, among many other attractions. Games, internet access, contests, workshops and thousands of books made the fair an appealing option for parents over the winter break. Notably, the fair offered a broad array of children and youth literature, including study guides and essays on pedagogy.

On July 18 and 19, the fair also hosted the Meeting of Children and Youth Literature Professionals, under the theme: Aires de buenos libros. Aires de buenos negocios (Airs of Good Books. Airs of Good Business). This event was targeted to the entire publishing chain and was intended to create a space for reflection, exchanges of ideas and training in and about the field of children and young literature.

The Promotion Books and Reading Forum held on July 23, under the theme Aires de buenos libros en las bibliotecas (Airs of Good books in the libraries). It was organized by ABGRA, for the purpose of training professionals to better select books for young readers. http://www.el-libro.org.ar/infantil/

REDCID: Ibero-American Portal for Information and Documentation Sciences

REDCID is an academic portal focused on Information and Documentation Sciences. Its immediate precursor was BIBAR, the Argentine Portal of Library and Information Sciences. REDCID arose to meet the need to broaden the BIBAR scope including the fields of archive practice and museology, as well as to embrace information and communications technology.

REDCID offers links to faculties, blogs, professional associations and other relevant organizations and services across Latin America. The Portal was designed entirely using free shareware and its main objectives are:

- Dissemination of regional professional activities.
- Promoting communication and professional contacts.
- Facilitating ongoing training via courses, conferences and virtual classrooms.
- Promoting access to diverse information resources associated with Information and Documentation Sciences.

ABIGRAP in the Asuncion Book Fair

Under the motto “Reading makes us free,” this year the Book Fair echoed the theme of the National Bicentennial, commemorated on May 14 and 15, 2011. The event was held in the Central Train Station "Carlos Antonio López" from May 19 to July 4 and gathered a vast array of local and foreign editors, while hosting forums, seminars, meetings with writers, and music and poetry recitals. "Promotion of books and reading is the main goal of the Libroferia, specifically to foster the reading habit in the citizens of Paraguay, while nurturing the critical spirit and free thinking". On May 28, within the framework of Libroferia, the Association of Library Science Graduates of Paraguay rendered homage to the writer Guido Rodríguez Alcalá and the librarian Gloria Ondina Ortiz de Cardozo. Don Guido Rodríguez Alcalá (1946) is a poet, narrator, historian, essayist, journalist and literary critic. He contributed to diverse local and foreign newspapers. Doña Gloria Ortiz de Cardozo (1944) taught basic school and she graduated at the National University of Asunción with a degree in Library Science. The university granted her honorable mention in recognition of her service from 1977 to 2000. She worked as a librarian in many institutions throughout the country and was a pioneer in library outreach, while fervently promoting school-based library networks throughout the country.

PERU

First BSLA (Building Strong Library Associations) Workshop

Doris Samanez

The first BSLA Workshop was held from January 27-29 in the College of Librarians of Perú (Colegio de Bibliotecarios del Perú, CBP) on the PUCP (Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú) campus Lima. The event was organized by IFLA-ALP and the CBP. Participants of this workshop were committed to replicating it and sharing the knowledge acquired with librarians in their home communities or regions to promote the development and strengthening of CBP and other library associations.

The workshop was led by two IFLA facilitators, Felipe Filiberto Martínez and Ana Maria Talavera Ibarra, who presented course content and moderated workshop debates. Among other participants, Doris Samanez Alzamora of IFLA-LAC Standing Committee was in attendance. The work group included five members of the current Directorate Council of the CBP, ten librarians from several libraries in Lima, and four from Peruvian provinces.

Issues approached

The workshop opened with an IFLA overview following by a description of IFLA-LAC activities under the direction of Dr. Martínez Arellano. The development of the BSLA program was stressed, with a discussion of its goals and objectives, participating countries and Perúís selection as the first Latin American country to participate in this program.

After the presentation conclusion, the agenda of topics associated with the development of librarians role in Peru was addressed. Some of the topics included were:

b) Building a librarian association. Under this heading, participants examined diverse experiences of successful associations, including features, structures and governance. Moreover, issues associated with personnel management, recruiting and training were discussed. Presentations on these topics were offered and group work was carried out centered on these themes, focusing especially on development of strategic and operative plans for the CBP, derived from a FODA analysis that included its components, and its vision and mission, including immediate and midterm actions.

c) Development of strategic partnerships. This module addressed issues surrounding stake holders and other interested parties in the CBP and the roles that each one would play to benefit our College. Special emphasis was afforded to promoting good relationships, and an examination of common conflicts in the workplace and the CBP. Finally, a marketing profile was drafted with the professional image we would wish to disseminate.

Some results obtained:

Through two highly focused, thoughtful sessions, workshop participants produced important conclusions and were able to draft documents to be used in the work plans of the College and the directives for developing and promoting the librarian profession. Specifically and among others, participants in the workshop achieved the following outcomes:

- Identification of the features of successful librarian associations, including stake holders, members, editors, collaborators, government and private sectors, and general community.
- A list of factors that affect the development of an association, including political, socio-economic, geographic, technological and legal matters.
- A FODA analysis of the current situation of the College, including a review of the institution’s vision and mission, as well as strategic and operative plans in order to map out immediate and medium term actions.
- Marketing and training plans for promoting the profession.
- Recognition of the need to promote via BSLA libraries and information units in the fields of health, education, nutrition, among others.
- Recognition of the need to include library science students in these workshops, since they are future of the profession.
- Recognition of the need to expand membership in the College, especially with regard to attracting younger members from throughout the country.
- An agenda of actions required to build a librarian association, i.e., an association other than the College itself that can serve as an umbrella for diverse interested parties.

Goethe-Institut Lima - Bibliotheksleiterin

Pharmacy of Illustrated Books: When text and illustration improve our lives.

Dr. Angela Thamm, Director of the Aachen Language Institute in Germany visited Peru thanks to the generosity of the Goethe-Institut Lima. Dr. Thamm came to help children understand that reading not only opens the doors to knowledge, but can also facilitate emotional healing, allowing one to move forward and achieve genuine quality of life. There are many ways to help yourself climb out of the bottom of the well, and depending on how you approach the problem; the solutions are there to be found.

The Pharmacy of Illustrated Books involves people of all ages in the task of learning and re-learning the emotions that make us human. Through illustrated books, the solution to emotional problems are sought and found. All of our fears, aggression, sadness and aptitude for violence are associated with an inability to express thoughts and feelings, which leads to the failure of interpersonal cooperation. Everyone is invited to discover the secret of therapeutic literature in the Pharmacy of Illustrated Books. http://www.erzaehlen-schreiben-lesen.de/

Local and foreign institutions join the Peruvian National Library's inventory efforts

D.Samanez CP

The National Library of Peru (BNP) announced that it will undertake an inventory in order to have precise, consistent and reliable information on its collection. Thereafter, several local and foreign institutions have joined in the effort. The inventory effort will enjoy the support of Peruvian Navy that has assigned its library personnel to the project. Miss Liliana Alarcon Urrutia, head librarian of the Navy Central Library, and Enrique Flores Rosado, a historian form the Historical Division, will lead the inventory project. Meanwhile, Telefónica Ingeniería de Seguridad (TIS), a subsidiary of Telefónica Internacional S.A., installed sophisticated security equipment in the San Borja headquarters of BNP. The equipment includes a monitoring console and DVR system that will be operational during the course of the inventory. These systems were provided totally free for the library. Likewise, the company will develop a strategic security plan for the National Library. IBM of Peru will also collaborate via the loan of 80 cutting edge computers to be used in the inventory data input. Professor Juan Luis Suarez, a Spaniard residing in Canada and representative of the University of Western Canada, will lead a group of Canadian, American and Spanish academics, who —at no cost to the National Library— will carry out audits of the inventory, software, cataloguing processes as well as overseeing appraisals of the antique and research collections. This team thanked the BNP authorities for the trust deposited in them. Moreover, team members have said that despite their short time in the country, they are very pleased with the work of local personnel who are clearly committed to the project. The team believes the inventory is being carried out with a high degree of precision and accuracy. The inventory team also includes Dr. Fernando Sancho Caparrini of the Department of Computer Science and Artificial Intelligence of the University of Seville; Dr. Kenneth Mills, Director of the History Department of the University of Toronto, and Javier de la Rosa, Head of Technical Support of the Culture Plex Lab. Completing the group is Eeva Muñoz,
Director of Libraries of the University of Western Ontario, who noted the professionalism of the BNP librarians and said she was convinced that inventory processes have been properly designed and implemented.

2nd Annual International Meeting of Storytellers

As a part of its cultural-education agenda, the Peruvian-North American Cultural Institute (ICPNA) through the auspices of its Library Directorate, organized the 2nd edition of the International Meeting of Storytellers on May 24-28. The event enjoyed the presence of storytellers from Argentina, Ecuador, Colombia, Chile and Peru, who delighted visitors with free shows, workshops and round table discussions, where practical and theoretical issues regarding the educational benefits of storytelling for promoting reading were explored. Among the prestigious storytellers in attendance were: Argentina's Alicia Barberis, who is a writer, playwright and storyteller. She has participated in events in Argentina, Mexico, Cuba and Spain; and has served as co-editor of the children's magazine Rayuela. Moreover, she has authored several books on reading promotion.

Carolina Rueda of Colombia is a storyteller, actress and teacher. She has represented Colombia in events held in Argentina, Chile, Peru, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Mexico, the United States of America, Spain and the Canary Islands. She always brings a vast repertory of top-notch stories.

José Luis Mellado of Chile is an actor, storyteller and script writer. He has worked in film, television and radio; and he has attended festivals in Bogotá, Medellín, Cali, Guadalajara, Seville, Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Asunción, Ordizia, Durango, Mex, and others. He is co-founder of the Latin American Popular Storytelling Network.

Angela Arboleda of Ecuador is a writer and storyteller with studies in theater, dance, social communication, advertising and marketing. She holds a post-graduate degree in Cultural Promotion. She has attended festivals in Colombia, Argentina, Uruguay, Mexico, Venezuela, Spain and Costa Rica. Currently she serves as Director of the International Meeting of Storytellers: “A Hill-full of Stories,” in Guayaquil, Ecuador.

The workshops, discussion groups, shows and story sessions attracted more than 600 visitors of all ages.

ICPNA participated in the Latino Literary Imagination virtual conference

The Library Directorate of the Peruvian-North American Cultural Institute, jointly the Rutgers University, the State of New Jersey organized a videoconferences series in English about the Latino Literary Imagination on April 7 and 8 at the Conference Hall of the ICPNA in Miraflores. The event enjoyed lectures by recognized experts in the field, including Laura Lomas of the United States of America and Fredy A. Roncalla of Peru. Both of these speakers have long track records of promoting Peruvian literature. Their presentations, titled respectively, Latina Visibility and the Racialized Body; and Latin American Literature of the Diaspora: Nuevo Latin Writing of the 21st Century were appreciated by all in attendance. Laura Lomas gave her talk on the premises of the ICPNA. These conferences, simultaneously broadcast to New Jersey, New Mexico and Lima, explored a broad array of issues surrounding the literary imagination of the Latin American immigrant wave washing over the United States of America in the second half of the 20th century and early 21st. Writers, artists and other panelists presented their views via poetry, novels, plays and other literary genres.

Black History Month 2011

As part of the Black History Month celebration, the Library Directorate of the Peruvian-North American Cultural Institute participated in cultural and educational activities in February held in the United States of America and other parts of the world. The event enjoyed the participation of prestigious local and international voices. The purpose of these events was to reassess the contributions of the black community in the culture, education, politics, gastronomy, social action and other areas. On February 21, ICPNA hosted Dr. Umi Vaughan of the United States, who presented a keynote address titled: The African Diaspora and the Drum. Dr. Vaughan holds his PhD in Cultural Anthropology from the University of Michigan. He shared his experiences and knowledge on the uses of drums and their expressive range in diverse communities. Moreover, he delighted those in attendance with a recital of African chants. The round table, titled International Year of African Descendants; the African contribution to music and dance, was held on February 23. Discussions were led by leading experts in the theme, including Mónica Carrillo, President of the Afro-Peruvian Studies Center (LUNDA); Dr. José “Cheche” Campos Dávila, President of the Degrees Commission of the Graduate Studies at the Education National University, Enrique Guzman y Valle, La Cantuta; Maruja Muñoz Ochoa, Vice-President of the Force for Peace Association and researcher in the field of Afro-Peruvian culture, as well as the international speaker Dr. Umi Vaughan, who paid a visit to the National Afro-Peruvian Museum, where he was received by Representative Martha Moyano, President of Afro-Peruvian Caucus of the Congress of the Republic, and by ICPNA dignitaries. Dr. Vaughn showed a keen interest in Afro-Peruvian culture during his tour of the museum. He was especially taken by the history and customs surrounding the Señor de los Milagros and by the sounds and rhythms of local musical instruments.

Teaching skills courses 2011
César Castro

From January 17 to February 11, the Library Directorate of the Peruvian-North American Cultural Institute, pursuant to fulfilling its social responsibilities in the fields of culture and education, organized a series of teaching skills courses in Language and Literature, Peruvian History, English Language and Civics. These courses were offered free of charge to elementary and secondary school teachers from colleges in Lima and Callao.

The series of courses provided teachers with latest research information in their respective areas and enjoyed the participation of members of the Peruvian Academies of History and of Language, the Humanities Department of the Pontifical Catholic University of Peru and the academic staff of ICPNA.

The event enjoyed the expertise of prestigious trainers, including renowned Peruvian writer Dr. Marco Martos Carrera, who is a leading member of the so-called “60s generation” in Peruvian poetry; Dr. Rodolfo Cerrón Palomino, recognized Peruvian linguist specializing in Andean language such as Quechua, Aimara, Mochica and Chipaya; and the philosopher and professor of the Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú (PUCP), Dr. Miguel Giusti, among many others.

The courses gathered 1570 teacher trainees and were broadcast in real time to ICPNA centers in Huancayo and Piura.

VIRGIN ISLANDS

Satellite Preconference in Saint Thomas, Virgin Islands
Julio Díaz Jutuf

IFLA’s Collection Acquisition and Development Section invites interested parties to participate in Satellite preconference in Saint Thomas, Virgin Islands on August 10 and 11, 2011.
