   b. SC members divided into three small groups to discuss Activity #3: How can a Unit achieve better success in these (dynamic professional unit criteria) areas?
   c. Summary of results of these conversations follows.
      Our Unit can:
      i. increase member participation and ensure all members participate in some way in the work defined in Action plan by; providing mentorship by long-term SC members to new members; make assignments with deadlines; keep a checklist of who is participating and reach out to those who are not; exercise the IFLA rule about missing meetings.
      ii. receive lots of suggestions and ideas from standing committee members by; reaching out to the full section (not just SC); provide more communication with the full section.
      iii. have an international community beyond the committee that actively participates in the Unit’s projects, discussions or activities by; continuing our satellite conferences, providing seminars at every midyear meeting, encouraging SC members to be a conduit to their regional organizations; continue multi-disciplinary participation on the committee.
      iv. have an Action Plan that includes at least one activity per year that benefits the community at large by; provide a midyear or satellite conference/seminar.
      v. have lots of volunteers for a project by; sharing jobs fairly; promote quality over quantity; include partners.
vi. get quick and useful comments from its community by: active communication; leveraging the network behind each SC member.

vii. have plenty of interested candidates for SC membership by: identifying, targeting and recruiting members; working on better global coverage; need more public/school libraries, young and tech-savvy candidates.

viii. attract new members to IFLA by: advocacy (people don’t know about the organization or how to get involved); SC members to advocate within their own networks.

ix. have a regularly updated web page that communicates regularly what the committee is doing by: investigate a LinkedIn or Instagram site; keep the LBES web page current by updating more often.
