CONTROL SUBFIELDS

Definition and Scope of Subfields

The group of subfields, defined similarly in many fields throughout the format, used to provide specific identifiers, relationships, sources of terms and codes and to qualify the form recorded in the field. Among their uses are also to provide links to both authority and bibliographic records, to specific institutions, and to other fields within a single record.

The name, description, repeatability and input standard may vary from the field to field.

Notes on Subfield Contents

Valid only for fields where following subfields are defined:

$4 Relator Code

Subfield Definition

This subfield contains a three-character code that specifies the relationship between an agent and the entity (specifically a work or an expression) described in the record.

When this subfield is used in 5X0 fields, subfield $5 should also be present with value “a” in character position 4 (relationship code between Agents and a Work or an Expression).

Occurrence

Optional. Repeatable.

Notes on Subfield Contents

For subfields order see section 6.4.

The codes that may be used are listed in Appendix C of the UNIMARC Manual: Bibliographic Format. The alphabetic 3-character codes allowing for a more precise identification of relationships for performers which may be used in addition to the numeric codes 545 and 721 when needed by the cataloguing agency are those used in UNIMARC Manual: Bibliographic Format, field 146, Appendix A and are found in IAML Medium of Performance Vocabulary, available on the IAML web site http://www.iaml.info/activities/cataloguing/unimarc/medium. An agency requiring greater precision should use the numeric code followed by the more specific alphabetic code in a repeated subfield.
